Vessel, 92 Feet Long, Goes Down as U.S. Coast Guard Attempts to Place Line Aboard; Dinghy Missing

South Haven, Mich., Aug. 29 (AP)—Coast guard patrols today searched for survivors of the yacht Verano, mysteriously sunk in the rough seas of Lake Michigan yesterday just as a lifeboat bent on rescue reached her.

The 92-foot vessel, owned by Maynard Dowell, Park Ridge, Ill., manufacturer, went down "without a sign of life aboard" three quarters of a mile off shore north of here at 5:32 p. m.

A renewed search of the waters by plane and boat was ordered this morning in the hope of finding the three men believed to have been aboard.

The Verano, which seamen said cost perhaps $100,000 to build, left Chicago early yesterday for Holland, Mich., where she was to get repairs.

Aboard were Chester Granath of Chicago, an employee of Dowell's Company, and an engineer and cook known as "Fred," and "Ben." Guardsmen said Granath was described to them as an experienced sailor.

Shore watchers saw the Verano in trouble seven and a half miles north of here, but already awash, she went down stern first as coast guardsmen who sped to her side were about to fling a line aboard.

The guardsmen glimpsed loose lines hanging from one side, indicating they said, that the dingy she carried had been let down and that her passengers had abandoned her sometime before.

The Verano sank in 60 feet of water and left tossed on the waves above her a pillow, a door, hatch ladder, and coast guardsmen reported seeing "several" cork life jackets.

Owner Dowell said he could not account for the sinking. He said the Verano had a leak "along her keel," which was to have been repaired at Holland, but that he did not believe this could have been the cause.

There was no sign of a fire or an explosion.

"We don't have any idea what happened," said Chief Bosun's Mate William Herbst, commanding the coast guard lifeboat.

Herbst, while emphasizing the rough seas were dangerous, said the men might have survived in the dingy if the small boat were in competent hands.

A power launch carried by the Verano had been left behind at Chicago, the coast guard said.

The Verano was valued by Dowell at $75,000. He bought the vessel, which had an 18-foot 6-inch beam, last May from Robert Baumgartner of Milwaukee. The ship was insured for $65,000 Dowell said.

Army, Navy Get Same Priority as That for Veterans

Potent 'MM' Rating Is No Good in Bid for Materials; O.P.A. Takes Hand

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—The government cut the army and navy down today to the same building materials priority as that reserved for veterans.

Henceforth, by decree of Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt, the armed forces no longer may use their potent "MM" rating for military barracks, quarters or housing in this country. Instead they must use the same "HH" priority that is given to builders of veterans' houses.

In another indicator of the government's anxiety to get thousands of veterans under good roofs before winter puts a crimp in building activity, O.P.A. disclosed that it had put its staff of "special agents" on the lumber black market trail.

The agents, a specially trained group within O.P.A.'s enforcement division, are "quietly" continuing their lumber investigations, O.P.A. Administrator Paul Porter said in a statement last night. They are provided with ample cash to make illegal purchases if necessary to obtain evidence.

The staff broke the Leesville, S. C., automobile case in which arrests were made Monday, and was responsible for the black market indictments of lumber operators on the west coast earlier in the summer.

Extends to Overseas

The crackdown on military use of building materials, announced last night by Wyatt and Civilian Production Administrator John D. Small last night, also extends to the rather heavy overseas building program of the army and navy, mostly in the Pacific.

Such overseas projects may qualify eventually for the higher "MM" priority, Wyatt said, but only after C.P.A. has "reviewed most carefully" the proposed purchases of materials to see whether they can be postponed and whether the orders can be spread out so that no single city is stripped of housing materials.

Winning up a whole series of orders designed to squeeze materials out of other construction and channel them into housing, Wyatt announced these additional lumber priorities:

Dealers must hold 90 per cent of their housing-type supplies for priority orders.

Eighty-five per cent of all millwork—doors, windowframes and similar ready-cut items—must be similarly earmarked by both manufacturers and dealers.

All residential-type hardwood flooring is frozen for the same priority use.

Hospitals for the army, navy and Veterans Administration also qualify. Formerly only 75 per cent was set aside for the housing program.

Finally, dealers are to receive at least one-third more housing lumber from sawmills, through re-sale of C.P.A.'s orders channeling supplies to dealers.

His Mother's 'Pretty'

Cornwall, Aug. 29 (AP)—"You're pretty," said five-year-old Tony when he saw his mother for the first time after his sight was restored through a delicate operation.

Tony was born with cataracts in both eyes and had never been able to see anything except as

'350 Will Die' That Is Safety Estimate

Chicago, Aug. 29 (AP)—Approximately 350 persons will be killed in public accidents during the three-day Labor Day week-end, the National Safety Council estimated today.

Of the total the council estimated 210 persons would die in motor vehicle accidents and 140 in other mishaps such as drownings and recreational accidents.

The ultimate toll probably will be greater than the estimate, the council added, because of deaths of some of those injured during the three-day period. Council statisticians charge a death against the day the injury was received, rather than the day the victim dies.

Milliken Offered Majority by Army Architect Is Undecided Whether to Accept Commission

Albert E. Milliken, architect with offices at 42 Main street, has been offered a commission as major in the Regular Army Corps of Engineers. During the war Mr. Milliken served as a major with the Air Corps and was executive officer with a Bombardment Squadron stationed in England.

Asked today whether he would accept the commission now offered, Mr. Milliken said he was undecided. He spent Wednesday in Washington in connection with the offer of the commission.

During the war Mr. Milliken was commissioned a captain in the Corps of Engineers and later went to England where he was transferred to the Eighth Air Force as a major and he served in the air corps until the close of hostilities.

Last spring Mr. Milliken took the examination for a commission in the regular army Air Corps and has now been offered a commission in the Corps of Engineers.

Army Is Perplexed Over Wearing of Military Uniform

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—The army, still worried about getting more men into uniform, is almost as fretful over how to persuade perhaps a million to doff their khaki.

That's the number the War Department suspects may be attired illegally in army dress—including some who never packed a rifle. They bought their military garb at surplus stores with no questions asked.

The department is concerned for two reasons:

The army gets a black eye whenever some individual in uniform commits a crime or otherwise misbehaves in public.

Morale of men still in uniform goes down when fresh criticism is heaped on the army.

Brig. Gen. B. M. Bryan, the army's provost marshal, described the situation today as "a headache to the War Department and to every M.P."

What to do about it is causing much scratching of official heads. One proposal was to ask Congress to tighten existing laws which provide a maximum of six months

OPA Clings To Schedule For Meats

Anderson, Porter Agree After Differing on Ceilings to Clamp on Markets

Attacks Anderson C.I.O. Says Secretary of Agriculture Voice of Profiteers

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—O.P.A. clung to its schedule for restoring meat price ceilings September 9 despite the 11th hour snarl that kept live animals free of controls for four extra days.

When the new schedules are posted, however, they will average about five and one-half cents a pound higher for beef and between two and one-half and three cents a pound more for pork than June 30 ceilings. But they'll still be below current costs.

O.P.A. and the Agriculture Department agreed on those estimates after differing sharply on what ceilings to clamp on the livestock markets.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson resolved that dispute by taking advantage of the new power Congress granted him. He directed O.P.A. Chief Paul Porter to hike the June price on live animal ceilings by $2.25 a hundred for beef and $1.40 for pork in an effort to stimulate production.

The C.I.O. cost of living committee today labeled this action as the climax to "a long series of incidents in which Anderson has acted as mouthpiece for profiteers."

In a statement issued by Chairman John Thornton, the committee said American living standards have been dealt "a new and disastrous blow" and added:

"The country has a right to know whether the President stands behind Anderson's decision."

The cabinet officer himself had pointed to what he called an "alarming" liquidation of livestock during the period of no controls and asserted in a statement: "The whole situation clearly emphasizes the urgent need for price levels which will be a stimulus for future production, rather than levels which would impede production."

Ceilings Delayed

The new live animal ceilings were to have gone into effect last midnight, but O.P.A. late yesterday announced a delay until Sunday to permit the agency to complete work on a new set of price tops for packers, wholesalers and retailers reflecting the higher levels ordered by the secretary.

O.P.A. said ceilings still will apply Sunday to slaughterers and packers, on September 5 to wholesalers and on September 9 to the butcher shops.

To complete the program, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation announced last night that effective Sunday it is restoring the slaughter subsidies which lapsed with price control June 30.

Otherwise the food price future included increases for prepared pancake and waffle mixes, canned Hawaiian pineapple and pineapple juice, canned salmon, and most syrups.

O.P.A. said the popular 20-ounce sizes of plain pancake and waffle mix as well as buckwheat pancake mix will rise two to three cents because of higher prices on flour and corn meal.

Fancy sliced Hawaiian pineapple will climb four cents a No. 212 can, and a one pound can of Alaskan red salmon will cost six cents more while the pink variety goes up for cents.

The syrup boosts will amount to as much as 20 per cent for blended Continued on Page Eleven

Approximately 2,000 Persons Attend Public Meeting at Auditorium; Speakers Stress Unity, Progress of Unionism

Organized labor has a great share of the responsibility of what happens in this country and in the world, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt told 2,000 persons at the Ulster County Labor Committee's public rally last night at municipal auditorium.

Heading a brilliant array of labor orators, the former First Lady declared that organized labor through the trade unions has the means to disseminate information to the masses.

Kai-Shek Favors Committee of Five

New Development Is Held as Hopeful; Would Embrace All

Nanking, Aug. 29 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was reported reliably today to have approved the creation of a committee of five, headed by American Ambassador John Leighton Stuart, to clear the way for a coalition government.

This was regarded here as the most hopeful development in the Chinese situation in recent weeks.

It came as fighting in the north increased sharply in intensity, and as Communists announced they might set up their own separate "national government" rather than accept any new constitution in which they did not have a voice.

The primary objective of Stuart's committee would be to bring the Kuomintang and minor parties together in a 40-man state council which would serve as an interim coalition governing body until a more permanent administration is formed at the November 12 national assembly.

Premier T. V. Soong called on Ambassador Stuart today and presented the names of the government members—Wu Te-Chen, secretary-general of the Kuomintang, and Chang Li-Sheng, minister of the interior—who are slated to serve around the same conference table with Communists Chou En-Lai and Tung Pi-Wu.

The government choices are scheduled to leave for the summer capital at Kuling tomorrow to receive instructions from the generalissimo. The committee probably would not begin functioning until early next week.

Formation of the council presumably would bring an end to hostilities and give Generalissimo and the Communist and Nationalist members of his committee of three a free hand to proceed with the military reorganization of China and the restoration of disrupted communications.

Ferry Use Arrives At New Peak With 947 Cars Carried

Pedestrians Total 801; Big Share of Traffic for Fair; Demand Is Heavy Today

Traffic Wednesday on the Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry George Clinton shattered all records since the ferry started operating on May 16 of this year.

The peak was set when the ferry yesterday carried 947 vehicles and 801 foot passengers. The greater share of the traffic was bound to and from the Dutchess County Fair in Rhinebeck.

The ferry made an extra trip last night leaving Rhinecliff for Kingston at 12:15 a. m. today, carrying 26 vehicles.

Ferry employees familiar with ferry traffic for 20 years said this morning that traffic bound for the fair was the heaviest they had ever seen in this area.

The Dutchess County Fair opened Tuesday when the ferry Clinton conveyed 678 vehicles and 411 foot passengers across the river.

An official of the State Bridge Authority, which operates the ferry, said this morning that traffic across the river was expected to be almost as equally heavy today as it was yesterday.

So great was the line of cars waiting for the ferry yesterday that several automobiles turned around and drove to Poughkeepsie Continued on Page Eight

U. S. Incomes in 1946 to Set Record of About 65 Billions

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—Figures compiled by government experts today indicate that individual incomes will set a record of about $65,000,000,000 this fiscal year—exceeding the booming year of 1945 by $5,000,000,000.

Moreover, information gathered by the taxation staff employed by congress and made available to a reporter suggests that even this estimate might be revised upward before the fiscal year ends next June 30.

This raised a possibility that the federal budget, thrown out of kilter by depression and war, might be brought into balance.

All these things are based on the assumption that the nation will remain relatively free of any large-scale strikes for the remainder of the fiscal year.

The new income estimates, compared by the budget bureau with official predictions last year that the 1947 income would be around $130,000,000,000, something it hasn't seen in a long time—a balanced budget wrote the first tax reduction.

Lange Says Sessions Today Will Be Long; Must Clear Cases for Assembly Voting Is Delayed

Debate on All Eight Bids Will Occur Before Balloting

Lake Success, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—The United Nations Security Council, faced with the threat of a blackball from the United States on two Russian-sponsored applications, resumed debate today on eight applications for membership in the United Nations.

Pavle Lukin, Yugoslav spokesman, advocated the admission of Albania, tracing what he called the long fight of Albania in behalf of the Allied powers.

Lukin countered the two-hour plea made yesterday against Albania by Vassili Dendramis, Greek representative.

As the council convened at 10:44 a. m. eastern daylight time on the last day in which it may consider applications for the coming session of the general assembly, Dr. Oscar Lange of Poland, council president, announced that Brazil's delegate, Dr. Pedro Leao Velloso, was absent because of illness. Orlando Leite Ribeiro, a deputy, sat for Velloso. Lange warned the delegates to be prepared for morning, afternoon and night sessions.

Only one section of the three set aside for spectators was filled today as the crowd fell off from the full house which greeted the first session in the new interim headquarters yesterday.

The Yugoslav statement was short. After Lukin concluded the Albanian application.

Telegram Is Released

Meanwhile, the secretariat released a telegram from S. Stephanopoulos, Greek acting minister of foreign affairs, who requested that the council's discussion on the Ukrainian charges against Greece be postponed for 10 days.

Lange called for a vote on the motion of Herschel V. Johnson, United States delegate, to postpone consideration of Albania's application.

Luis Padilla Nervo, Mexican delegate, proposed that the council debate all eight applications and then vote on them at the end of the discussion.

The council has no objection and Lange ruled that the voting would come at the end of the discussion. It was the third time since the council met yesterday on memberships that the Johnson motion had come up and had been sidetracked.

After the brief parliamentary jockeying, Lange dismissed the Yugoslav and Greek representatives from the table and called up the application of the Mongolian People's Republic, to which Johnson has expressed opposition.

The prospect of an American blackball of both Albania and Outer Mongolia developed yesterday after Soviet Russia had rejected a proposal by U. S. Delegate Herschel V. Johnson that the council pass favorably upon all eight applicants.

Johnson's plan to apply the "principle of universality" and admit all eight was supported immediately by Brazil, Mexico, Egypt, China and the Netherlands.

France looked upon it with favor after Siam voluntarily asked that her application be held in abeyance pending settlement of her border dispute with French Indo-China.

However, stout opposition from Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko to what he called wholesale acceptance of candidates and the added threat of a Russian veto, blocked the American effort.

Johnson withdrew his proposal at Gromyko's request. Russia was joined by Australia in principle, as both called for individual consideration of each applicant.

Remarks on Reservation

Johnson immediately countered by reiterating a reservation he had made in first offering his proposal when he declared that the United States had "misgivings about some of the applicants, especially Albania and Outer Mongolia," but was willing to waive any doubts it all eight could be accepted in a batch.

The American delegate said he would be forced to oppose both those applications if they were voted on separately at this time. He urged successfully that the council president call for a vote on the question of postponing consideration of Albania and Outer Mongolia.

Sweden, Ireland and Afghanistan remained unopposed for membership. Portugal, Ireland and Transjordan were without support from Russia and Poland was Continued on Page Twenty-two

Dodd Asks Guilty Verdict at Trials Of Nazi Leaders

Reich Cabinet, Political Corps, Elite Guard, Brown Shirts and Others Cited

Washington, Aug. 29. (P)—American Prosecutor Thomas J. Dodd asked the international war crimes tribunal at Nuremberg today for a guilty verdict against five "Nazis" or "Nazi-perpetrated" organizations.

He declared the indicted Reich cabinet, political leadership corps, SS elite guard, SA brown shirts and Gestapo—together with the military high command—were the principal agencies through which the Nazis effected their "monstrous crimes" against civilization.

"Despite the Nazi conspirators of these organizations and they could never have accomplished their criminal aims," Dodd told the tribunal. "By convicting them, the court would show mankind."

"That no crime will go unpunished because it was committed in the name of a political party or of a state; that no crime will be passed by because it is too big; that no criminals will avoid punishment because they are too many."

Dodd is executive trial counsel for Associate Justice Robert H. Jackson, the U. S. chief prosecutor. The text of his plea was made public here by the American prosecution staff.

Jackson earlier had urged the conviction of 23 individual Nazi leaders, who with the organizations have been on trial since last November. If an organization is convicted of war crimes, the next step by the allies will be to identify and try individual members other than the 23 principals in the main case.

Dodd told the tribunal that the organizations, with possibly 3,000,000 volunteers, members, constituted "the political Frankenstein of our era, which brought terror and fear to Germany and spread horror and death throughout the world."

"The leadership corps of the Nazi party was its body, the Reich cabinet its head," he said, "its powerful arms were the Gestapo and the SA and when it strode over Europe its legs were the armed forces and the SS."

In his 10,000 word summation, Dodd dealt only with prosecution's case against five of these six organizations. The high command, also indicted, will be the subject of a separate argument by another American prosecutor.

A seventh organization, the SD secret police of the Reichsfuehrer SS, was treated as a part of the Gestapo, although it had separate headquarters.

Lord Cavan Dies
London, Aug. 29. (P)—Field Marshal Lord Cavan, 80, chief of the British Imperial General Staff from 1922 to 1926, whose military career extended from the South African War, died yesterday in a London nursing home.

The 10th Earl of Cavan, the field marshal commanded the troops during the coronation of George VI, and from 1920 to 1922 had served as aide-de-camp to King George V. He was in charge of operations of the Tenth Italian Army on the Pave front in 1918. He was made a field marshal in 1932.

Brain Cancer Victim Is Host at Party

Granby Center, N. Y., Aug. 29. (P)—Little Gary Halstead, waging a losing battle against a brain cancer that already is causing blindness, observes his fourth birthday today as host to his playmates at an ice cream-and-cake party.

The festivities at the Halstead home in this upstate New York village were planned by Gary's mother, Mrs. Clifford Halstead, who fears that this may be his last birthday party.

"One never knows when the end will come," said Mrs. Halstead, explaining that the blond, blue-eyed youngster had been pronounced incurable by several specialists.

"That's why we try to give him everything he wants as soon as possible," she added.

An outdoor slide, a telephone set with batteries, toy trucks and model airplanes were among Gary's birthday gifts.

Gary won't be able to participate, his mother said, because he "can't see too far ahead of him." She explained he had lost the sight of his left eye, and was able to see only three or four feet ahead with his right eye.

Medical authorities have advised that any attempt to remove Gary's malignant growth would prove fatal, Mrs. Halstead said.

At least 19 persons at one time simultaneously claimed the title of Roman emperor.

Million Moslems Celebrate Festival

Calcutta, Aug. 29. (P)—More than 1,000,000 Moslems celebrated the religious festival of Id-UI-Fitr in Calcutta today against a sombre background of rioting and carnage which broke out August 16 when members of the Muslim League observed "Direct Action Day."

Strict military police measures to attend congregational prayers invoked as an aftermath of the riots remained in force, but a city prohibition against assemblages of more than five people was relaxed for six hours to permit Moslems to attend congregational prayers in various parts of India's largest city. Calcutta police headquarters reported that up to 10 a. m.—when heavy tanks were drawn up in front of the Bengal government headquarters and armor also was in evidence along Chowringhee road, the city's most fashionable thoroughfare.

On-Job Training May Be Curtailed By 70 Per Cent

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—About 70 per cent of the on-the-job training program already approved for New York veterans face cancellation or revision as a result of a veterans administration's interpretation of the new law limiting subsidies on training programs, according to state authorities.

The new legislation—public law 679—became effective August 8. Announcement of the impending changes was made in a joint statement last night by Edward Corsi, state industrial commissioner, and Edward J. Neary, director of the state division of veteran's affairs.

Under the VA's interpretation, they said, all on-the-job programs, whether approved before August 8 or not, must be limited to two years and incomes of participants derived from wages and government subsistence payments must not exceed $175 monthly for those veterans without dependents and $200 monthly for those with dependents.

Corsi and Neary said the only previous limitation on income was that the amount derived from wages and subsistence should not exceed the wage the veteran would receive when qualified to hold the job he had set as his objective.

The principal objection to the law, Corsi and Neary said, was that it worked undue hardship on veterans in states like New York "due to the high cost of living in these states as compared with other parts of the nation."

200 Pharmacies Are Ready to Serve Vets

More than 200 pharmacies in the 20 eastern New York counties are today prepared to offer prescriptions and medical supplies service to war disabled veterans as the result of an agreement between the New York State Pharmaceutical Association and the Veterans Administration, it was announced today by Charles C. Adams, Albany regional office manager of the Veterans Administration.

The Pharmaceutical Association and the Veterans Administration have entered into a one year contract which permits pharmacists to fill prescriptions from physicians authorized by the Veterans Administration to treat veterans with service-incurred injuries and illness. Formerly, it was necessary for these veterans to obtain this service from a Veterans Administration Hospital or Clinic.

Dr. Warren M. Pettengill, chief regional medical officer, in explaining the operation of the new plan, said: "The original prescription for the veteran patient must be written on the physician's regular printed prescription blank and presented to the pharmacist. The veteran signs for the prescription and a certified copy of it is sent as a bill to the Veterans Administration through the Pharmaceutical Association."

89 Are Arrested After Investigation

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—Eighty-nine persons were arrested in the 24 hours following Mayor William O'Dwyer's order of an investigation into the activities of 300 members of the police department's vice and gambling squads.

Commissioner Arthur W. Wallender made public without comment yesterday figures showing that 14 were charged with disorderly conduct for card playing, 15 with disorderly conduct for shooting dice, 17 for policy playing, 12 for bookmaking and one for using premises for gambling.

Wallender promised that the police department would cooperate with Commissioner of Investigation John M. Murtagh, who was directed by O'Dwyer Tuesday to "check up on the work of the men in the police department assigned to the enforcement of law in connection with vice and gambling by all commands and all personnel within those commands."

"We are cooperating very closely with the commissioner of investigation and are making available to him all gambling files and records held by this department," Wallender said.

Murtagh called on O'Dwyer yesterday at city hall but declined to discuss with newsmen the progress being made by his investigation.

Shortly after O'Dwyer ordered the investigation, Wallender called in 150 department officers and accused them of "laxity."

'These Days'

By George E. Sokolsky

ZIONISM

I have received a number of requests for an explanation of Zionism.

Zionism is as old as the Jewish people, who originated in Uti of the Chaldees in Mesopotamia. Terah was the father of Abraham, the progenitor of the Jews, who migrated to the land of Canaan to which the Romans eventually gave the name of Palestine. In this land, which they called Eretz Israel, after many vicissitudes, the Jews achieved their cultural and spiritual greatness. It was here that the Bible was developed, that David and Solomon reigned, that the Temple was erected, burned and re-erected. It was here that the prophets spoke their moral law, that the Psalms were the product of the people, that the Talmud, the Mishnah, apocryphal, and Talmudic, was given to the world. It was here that a Jewish sect, the Essenes, blossomed into Christianity.

Palestine then has always been more than a geographical expression to the Jews. It has always been the spirit, the soul, of this people. In the religious liturgy of the Jews, prayer after prayer cries for the return to Zion, to the land that God had promised Abraham and to which Moses led them out of Egypt. During every period of persecution, Jews turned to Palestine as a place of refuge, and so deeply are they moved by this hope that for thousands of years, during their prayers, whether in the synagogue or at home, orthodox Jews have turned toward Jerusalem in reverence.

Zionism therefore is deeply ingrained in the religion, the traditions, the faith of a people whose relationship to that area is more than 5,000 years old. Politically, however, the Jews have held Palestine for a comparatively short period. The exodus from Egypt occurred in 1220 B.C. in the year 63 A.D. Roman procurators were appointed to Palestine, which definitely established it as a Roman colony. Prior to that it had been conquered by Babylon, Assyria and the Persians. In spite of these conquests and the frightful tribulations of the Jews, they managed to survive, not because they were a race of a nation, but as a fervent religious community bound to the Torah, the Biblical law, the religious traditions, their faith in God and their hope for a return to Palestine, which represented to them not greatness but peace.

Modern Zionism is but one blossom on this eternal tree whose roots are so deep in historic soil. The author of its political phase was Dr. Theodore Herzl, an Austrian journalist who recognized in the Dreyfus Case the inevitable recurrence of anti-Semitism and who sought for the establishment, by political means, of a Jewish homeland in Palestine. His book, "The Jewish State," appeared in 1896 and a year later, the First Zionist Congress met at Basel in Switzerland.

Since then, Jews throughout the world have been split over the implications of Zionism. Those who, by political and economic circumstances, lived in freedom and comfort tended to oppose Zionism, fearful lest the success of the movement might involve them in dual citizenship. Many opposed it on the ground that the Jews were exclusively a religious sect and could only at their peril become associated with nationalistic or territorial movements. But the majority of Jews, particularly traditionally religious Jews, have favored this movement in all its manifestations because to them Judaism has no meaning at all except in the words of the Psalmist:

"By the rivers of Babylon,
There we sat down, yea, we wept,
When we remembered Zion."

At the end of World War I, after Palestine had been liberated from Turkish rule, the Jews were promised a "homeland" in Palestine by Great Britain and the United States. Great Britain also entered into a series of relationships with the Arabs which contravened this promise. Large numbers of Jews migrated to Palestine and millions of dollars were invested, particularly by American Jews, in agricultural, industrial and educational enterprises. At the end of World War II, however, the Jews discovered that they had been betrayed.

Third A-Bomb Test May Not Be Carried Out, if Findings Are Observed

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 29—The third test on the atomic bomb, which was scheduled for some time next year, may have been proved superfluous by what the first two tests have taught.

The practical value of detonating a bomb 3,000 feet under the sea is beginning to be doubted. In the first place, it is questionable whether any sure way can be devised for suspending a bomb that can be set off at such great depth. But, more than this, it is beginning to be recognized that even if a bomb were touched off at 3,000 feet below the surface, it would hardly prove that targets in the future would be exactly in similar spots.

Ships are too mobile to remain in any area very long, and it would seem impossible that if a bomb were detonated at 3,000 feet undersea it would prove that such a weapon could be put to use against moving fleets.

The stationary targets used in the tests received all the damage that the atomic bomb can inflict from a comparatively low depth, and this is sufficient to indicate what the bomb can do from an underwater explosion. With the data gathered on the dropping of an atomic bomb from the air and detonation in relatively shallow water, all the information needed to redesign ships and figure out what defense, if any, is available is now at hand.

The atomic bomb tests, moreover, take a lot of personnel and ships and consume the time of top-ranking officers. Unless a test has an assured value, it does not warrant all the expense and time given to it.

There is a feeling here that the atomic bomb tests should not be continued unless they are going to be of some immediate value. Unless some purpose can be served, there is a disposition not to flaunt the bomb before other nations.

The trend, therefore, now is toward the elimination of the third test for all the reasons mentioned above, but, if in the examination of data by the research men any practical value can be seen for a third test, there would not be the slightest hesitation to order such a test.

To explode the atomic bomb at 3,000 feet underwater requires an apparatus which can contain the bomb and yet afford some method of detonating it that is sure. Once such a bomb is exploded, it would be difficult to make sure that the exact spot needed for the experiment.

Altogether there has been much learned already from the second test about the way an atomic bomb behaves under water. It was conducted under ideal conditions which showed the damage to hulls as well as the extent of the blast. Certainly a bomb at a greater depth than that used in the second test could not tell any more than the second test would be inclined to say that no fare has been or could be devised which would not also injure the ship that dropped its cable overboard or tried to carry the bomb to some depth below ships.

It is quite conceivable that instead of underwater explosion, some means of using the atomic bomb in guided missiles hurled above the water or on its surface may be used. But the first and second tests already tell what damage could be done by detonation of the bomb close to targets.

Whether a defense against the atomic bomb will ever be devised remains in the realm of the speculative, but it is noticeable here that since the first and second tests there is more confidence in the ultimate development of a defense than there was after the two bombs were dropped on Japan.

It has been apparent too, that those who design ships believe that they will be able to overcome in future construction some of the ill-effects of the atomic bomb. It would seem that the danger of radioactivity to human life is of far more concern now than of old, of the designers to use materials for their coverage so as to mitigate the effects of the atomic bomb.

In the field of science, however, the study of radioactivity may lead to some countervailing substance that might neutralize the radioactivity. In short, the information derived from the first and second tests is adequate for all practical purposes, and that is why a third test for next year seems unprobable.

It is hoped that Mary Margaret McBride will have sufficiently recovered from her recent operation to be present. She was unable to do so last year because of an assigned trip to Eastern Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Scudder entertained as weekend guests Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Endres of Clifton, N. J. Mr. Endres is president of the Clifton National Bank and Trust Co.

WORKING ABILITY OF THE LIVER

I write frequently about the liver because the saying "life depends upon the liver" is not only true but "health depends upon the liver" is also true. This is because of the many jobs done by the liver.

Some of these as mentioned before, are (a) manufacturing bile, (b) storing away sugar for future use, (c) manufacturing material to help make blood, and (d) filtering out poisons and harmful organisms from the blood.

So important is the liver to health, to life itself, that one-quarter of all the blood in the body may be in the liver at one time engaged in the various jobs mentioned above. Yet, so generous is Nature to mankind that much of the liver may be removed yet it will carry on with its work almost as effectively as before.

Because the liver and its work is so important physicians as often have tests made of the working ability of the liver in any case to find out how well it is doing its work and also to find out, if possible, what and how much damage to the liver is occurring. These tests are called liver function tests.

I have mentioned several of the tests now or formerly in use, and tried to point out the advantages of each.

One test that seems to have outlived many others is the hippuric acid test. In the University of Toronto Medical Journal R. D. Hawkins states that this test is based on the ability of the liver to combine benzoic acid and amino-acetic acid to form hippuric acid.

To overcome some of the difficulties of giving the benzoic acid by mouth Quack and his associates in 1938 devised a method of injecting 1.77 grams of sodium benzoate into a vein and collecting the urine for one hour after the injection. This within one hour the ability of the liver to remove hippuric acid is found.

If, then your physician finds it advisable to have you undergo

Grant Anniversary Sale Is Opened

Firm Celebrates Beginning of 21st Year in City

The W. T. Grant Company, observing its 20th anniversary of the opening of its Kingston store, today celebrated that event with a big store-wide sale which opened at 10 o'clock. On hand to take advantage of the large number of "hard to get" items which were included in the sale, was a very large crowd of shoppers who continued to throng the store during the day.

John A. Loyer, manager of the store, had placed on sale not only the usual stock in the store but many new items which have just been received. In order to arrange this new stock in time for the sale the Grant store was closed on Tuesday of this week to complete this work.

Twenty years ago the W. T. Grant Company came to Kingston and opened up a store. Since that time the store has been enlarged several times until it now has double the floor space of the original store. As business grew it became necessary to take over the store where the Up-To-Date Company had been located for many years and the Up-To-Date Company moved to new quarters up Wall street. The Grant Company now occupies the entire building, including the upper floors of the building. It has been the policy of the company to hire local help and two of the original employees are still with the company. Mrs. R. Jones is in charge of the hosiery department and Mrs. M. Sickles is with the office force.

Training Program For Veterans Being Viewed by Officials

Albany V.A. Office Looks for Violations Harnful to Former Service Men on Jobs

Education and training officers attached to the Albany Regional Office of the Veterans Administration are conducting a searching review of the job training program, which has come under heavy fire by General Omar Bradley and other public officials, it was announced today by Thomas F. Fitzgerald, acting regional manager. Commenting on the move to investigate the job training program, which has been described as a possible "national scandal," Fitzgerald said: "We are making a careful check of these training programs and we will make certain they conform to the standards set by law for the veterans' education. If abuses are found, they will be reported for appropriate action, and veterans found to be enrolled in undesirable types of training will be transferred to more advantageous ones."

James Dooley, chief of the Vocational Rehabilitation and Training Division, reported that a higher percentage of veterans were enrolled in on-the-job training in the 20 counties in the Albany regional area than in any other similar region of New York state.

Many In Job Training
Statistics furnished by the training official showed that of approximately 6,000 veterans in training about 50 per cent are in job training. This figure is considerably higher than the New York state average, which shows only 16 per cent of trainee veterans in job training programs, while nationally, the number in job training is about 34 per cent, or about 15 per cent lower than in the Albany regional area.

Dooley said that the great majority of veterans enrolled for job training have as employment objectives the trade and industrial occupations. Next in order of preference are the professional, technical and managerial occupations, clerical and sales occupations, service occupations, and agricultural and kindred occupations.

As part of the move to review the job training program, Veterans Administration officials have conducted a state wide industrial survey of training opportunities for veterans. The results of this survey show that merchandising, textiles, and airlines have the largest opportunities for veteran trainees. The New York Telephone Company was discovered to have an excellent training program under development, and expected to employ approximately 4,000 veterans by the end of the year.

Radio, refrigeration, and electrical fields had training opportunities but lacked materials. This was found to be true also of wood and metal industries. Photography showed little opportunity for veterans because of overcrowding in the profession, as well as material shortages.

Farm Wages Too Low
Agricultural training showed a tendency to keep wage scales too low to attract many trainees, and farmers generally were not informed about the training program.

Dooley said that since about 20,000 veterans are expected to seek job training this fall, most of the needed job training opportunities will have to be created in firms which have not previously conducted such programs.

Would Bar Mexicans
San Mateo, Calif., Aug. 29 (AP) — The Mexican Tipica orchestra will not appear at the San Mateo County International Pan-American Fiesta, and probably will not be able to play at the Texas State Fair, because James Petrillo disapproves of foreigners competing with his union's musicians. The president of the American Federation of Musicians served notice that he "objects strongly to any foreign bands playing" in his jurisdiction and said if the Tipica band plays at the Texas State Fair starting October 5, "it will be against our wishes."

Jackson Suggests Labor 'Sit Tight' To Help Business

C. of C. Speech Reaction to C.I.O. Threats to Up Wages to Meet Living Costs

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—William K. Jackson, United States Chamber of Commerce president, said today labor will start a "vicious surge of inflation" if it seeks "another round of strike-enforced wage increases."

Jackson conceded in a statement that living costs have risen, but he urged that everybody "sit tight" to give business a chance to build up consumer goods production. "Nobody wants labor to suffer," the industry spokesman said. "But a point that nobody is making these days is that labor is not alone. Increased cost of living not only affects the laboring man—it affects the farmer, the professional man, the housewife. It affects everybody."

"Production is under way. The pipelines are being filled. Goods are moving from production lines to the shelves. But it will take time for the shelves to be filled."

Jackson's statement is the first reaction from industry to recent C.I.O. threats to submit new wage demands unless prices are rolled back and government wage stabilization standards are liberalized. A.F.L. leaders lately have renewed requests for the government to scrap all wage and price controls.

AP Foreign News Analyst

As if there were not troubles already between the western powers and the Soviet bloc, the issue of elections in eastern Europe promises to produce continued friction in the coming weeks. Between now and winter a series of contests is scheduled that can hardly fail to produce new points of disagreement.

Nothing has shown so clearly the question of the great powers as the speaking of the same ideological language when they met at Yalta and Potsdam to plan the future of the eastern lands which were being freed from the Nazi yoke. The word election means one thing to Americans and Britons, quite another to the Russians and quite another to the Chinese. The upshot is that pledges made at Yalta and later conferences have little chance of being fulfilled to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Here are some of the impending elections:

Bulgaria holds a plebiscite September 8 to determine whether she shall abandon the monarchy under the boy King Simeon or become a republic. Then on September 27 an election of a constituent assembly is scheduled. Secretary Byrnes took occasion in Paris recently to inform the weaker of the Bulgarian parliament that the course of politics in Bulgaria was not pleasing to the United States.

Romania's premier some weeks ago declared that free and unfettered elections would be held in September, in accordance with the Moscow agreement of the Big Three. This week, however, he told the American chargé d'affaires, according to reliable information, that the elections must wait on the arrival of large grain imports since the government would not stand a "hungry electorate."

This makes Romania's political future extremely uncertain.

Both the Romanian and Bulgarian governments are under Moscow's sponsorship and guidance.

Elections September 1

In the Russian zone of Germany communal elections are to be held September 1 and the two following Sundays which will provide a test of the strength of the Communist cause supported by the Red Army.

On the other side of the ideological fence, Greece is voting Sunday on whether to restore King George II to the throne. Britain and America are trying to ensure a free secret ballot, but with the opposition to the monarchy declaring in advance that the election will be unfair and threatening abstention, the full play of democratic processes can not be expected. And Russia already is making her displeasure known in advance, by permitting her ambassador to leave Athens.

At the moment concerns Poland. A national election, intended to produce a new parliament, has been set tentatively for November. However, the election laws have not yet been enacted and Tuesday the Warsaw government announced that the parliamentary session which was to have framed them, set for August 31, had been postponed indefinitely.

Whether this is connected with the current acrimonious exchanges between Washington, London and Warsaw—with Moscow in the

O.P.A. Ceiling Violators to Be Prosecuted; Will Nip Black Market in Bud

Newark, N. J., Aug. 29 (AP)—The U. S. attorney's office and district O.P.A. in New Jersey said they were ready today to deal "promptly and ruthlessly" with any effort to breach the meat price program.

Federal Attorney Edgar H. Rossbach and O.P.A. Director Richard J. Tarrant disclosed they had conferred in the past two days on measures to be taken, and they warned that meat ceiling violators would be prosecuted at every level.

Rossbach, who recently cracked down on used car sales violations, said "we will do the same thing in the meat industry, if the need arises."

The joint statement said the first objective of the meat price enforcement program would be "to move rapidly to smother every manifestation of black marketing before it has a chance to take root and spread."

To this end, O.P.A. has augmented its enforcement division and investigators were sent to livestock markets in the state today to familiarize themselves with the technical operation.

This step was preparatory to raiding of the markets at Flemington, Sussex, Jersey City, Hackensack and Newark beginning Sunday when livestock ceilings re-

Adel Vacates Milk Injunction in City

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—Justice Frank F. Adel of the appellate division, second department, Brooklyn, yesterday vacated a temporary injunction which enjoined the city's health department from acting under a health regulation to fix the amount of milk to be shipped into the metropolitan area by producers.

The temporary injunction was granted August 21 by Supreme Court Justice James W. Bailey in Westchester county.

Under the regulation in question, a subsection of the New York City Sanitary Code, the city health commissioner regulates the amount of milk that 11 suburban counties, as well as the five boroughs, received from the six-state metropolitan milkshed.

Justice Bailey had acted on a joint plea made by representatives of Nassau and Westchester counties.

New York City Health Commissioner Israel Weinstein said last night that the city had asked Justice Bailey to grant a two-week adjournment of the case. Weinstein said the judge granted the request but then issued the temporary restraining order.

"I said at the time that New York City was not going to take this lying down," Weinstein said.

Before the war, 99 out of every 100 Japanese children were in school.

That pledge, to which Russia, sponsor of the new Polish state, was a party, is now more than a year old and the outlook for its complete fulfillment has not improved in that year. It should be added, however, that the undertaking concerning the Allied press has been better kept than that promising freedom for "all democratic and anti-Nazi parties" to make their campaigns. There is convincing evidence that such freedom has not been given to the Polish peasant party and the workers' party, which oppose the four parties which dominate the Warsaw regime.

Big Four Foreign Ministers Would Revitalize Parley

By ROBERT EUNSON

Paris, Aug. 29 (AP)—The foreign ministers of Britain, Russia, the United States and France met this afternoon in an effort to find a way of revitalizing the Paris peace conference.

Shortly before the ministers gathered in the office of Georges Bidault, president and foreign minister of France, the conference had witnessed another of the clashes which have bedeviled the peace-making. An Australian proposal to establish a sub-committee to collect factual data on the Italian-French frontier was beaten 13 to six in the Italian commission after a heated Australian-Russian exchange.

The four principal powers and nine other nations voted against the Australian plan.

U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and Bidault met in the building containing the famous clock room where the Big Four of 1919 framed the treaties which they hoped would end war.

Their first task, it was believed, was to devise a common ground for dealing with the 300 amendments to treaty drafts which have snowed the conference under. As they met only the preambles to four of the treaties had been adopted in commissions. The conference itself had yet to pass on most of these, having passed on less than 200 of the 55,000 words in the five treaties for Bulgaria, Italy, Romania, Finland and Hungary.

Secretary Byrnes was the first to arrive at the Quai D'Orsay. He was accompanied by his advisors for the meeting, Senators Arthur Vandenberg (R-Mich.) and Tom Connally (D-Tex.), and his interpreter, Charles Bohlen.

John A. Beasley, the Australian delegate, took up the award of the Mont Cenis Plateau to France in particular in his argument before the Italian commission that a special committee should make a study on all disputed territorial questions connected with the Italian treaty.

Referring to papers collected on the question by a committee of experts for the deputy foreign ministers of Britain, Russia, the United States and France, Beasley exclaimed, "We have never seen these documents."

"I'll tell you more," he stormed. "This committee of experts went to this place. How can they give us any information?"

Replying to the charge of the Soviet deputy foreign minister, Andrei Y. Vishinsky, that the proposal for a sub-committee came from persons "who hadn't studied" the situation, Beasley said:

"It is because we have studied it that we want more information."

The vote on the question, which lined up only Belgium, Brazil, Greece, The Netherlands and South Africa with the Australians, came just before the foreign ministers of Britain, Russia, the United States and France met in a big four session in an attempt to revive the conference now in the latter half of its fifth week.

This was the second set-back to major Australian amendments in the conference. Yesterday Australia was beaten in her efforts to have Russia's $1,000,000,000 reparations bill against the five former enemy states involved here set aside for six months and made the subject of a special commission study.

Another argument flared in the military commission over a Brazilian amendment to the Italian treaty which provides for destruction of permanent Italian military fortifications along the French-Italian frontier.

Gen. Angelo Mendes De Moraes of Brazil proposed that the treaty provide for destruction of installations "able to fire on French soil." Presumably his amendment would have permitted Italy to retain some defensive installations.

Adopts Phrasing

The commission adopted the original phrasing, however, providing for destruction or removal of all Italian fortifications within 12 miles of the frontier.

Polish Delegate Vincenty Wi-and territorial commission to forget petty differences and get down to work.

He reminded the commission members they had taken a full month to discuss only six and one-half of the Italian treaty's 32 pages, all of which must be considered by three commissions and the full 21-nation conference before it can go to the big four foreign ministers for final drafting.

The big four arranged to meet in "restricted session" at 4 p. m. (10 a. m. E.S.T.) today in the French foreign office on the Quai D'Orsay in an effort to inject some speed and harmony into the month-old parley.

Their purpose was to survey the status of their handiwork. Each will be accompanied by two advisers and one interpreter as they momentarily dodge the fierce light of publicity which has glared upon all the conference proceedings.

The session, the first since July 13 and like all those of the council, will be secret and confidential. It will receive only a briefing on the discussions from press delegations officers after the meeting.

The big four—Britain's Ernest Bevin, France's Georges Bidault, Russia's V. M. Molotov and the United States' James F. Byrnes—were expected to get down to a review of approximately 300 amendments proposed to the treaty drafts for Bulgaria, Finland, Hungary, Italy and Romania.

Conference sources expected them to narrow the field of disagreement by selecting those amendments which would be acceptable to all four.

$1,500 in Rewards Out for Assailant Of Vassar Girl

Daughter of Physician Is Found Beaten in Lot at Richmond, Va.; Thought Dead

Richmond, Va., Aug. 29 (AP)—Rewards totaling $1,500 were being offered today for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the assailant of a 22-year-old Vassar College graduate, Miss Anne Maria Fowlkes, daughter of Dr. Carroll H. Fowlkes, a prominent Richmond physician, who was beaten, stabbed and left for dead in a lot in the Westhampton section Tuesday night.

John W. Huffman, city purchasing agent, announced the offering yesterday, and said a $500 reward was offered personally by Mayor William C. Herbert, who has authorized Huffman to post the additional $1,000 from city funds.

Governor Tuck said he would confer today with Attorney General A. P. Staples on the possibility of the state matching the $1,000 city reward.

These developments came a short while after Alderman James B. Alsop, a resident of the Westhampton area where the attack occurred, announced that the Hampton Gardens Citizens Association plans an "indignation meeting" tonight to discuss the incident.

Mayor Herbert's action came as an aroused and angry Richmond police force pressed a day-long house-to-house search for the attacker of the young woman, whose condition last night was reported as "improved but still critical."

Vacationland Is Hit by Cool Wave

Ulster Boarding Houses Feel Sharp Evacuation

Cool weather for the past several days has caused many summer people to leave the boarding areas of Ulster county and return home, it was stated today by a representative of the local vacationland committee. While the boarding houses have felt the "back to the city" movement, cottages and cabins continue to remain full and week-end traffic continues to be brisk.

What started out to be a banner year for the summer resorts has turned into a "normal" season since the first of August when the "back to the city" movement began to make its appearance.

About the first of August when a cool snap took over the mountain area, the boarding house business suddenly began to slacken off, it was stated.

Week-end business has been good but during the middle portions of the week, business has been slack in many localities. Some of this lack of business in the boarding houses has been due to motorists returning to the highways after the week-end time restrictions on travel due to gasoline shortage. Overnight cabins have done a brisk business and motor traffic has held up well. This is indicated by the figures released recently by the Bridge Authority regarding traffic over the bridges across the Hudson. Both the Mid-Hudson and the Rip Van Winkle bridges have done a record business with traffic over the past week-end totaling over 13,000 vehicles.

Many of the boarding houses will remain open during September and October but on the whole the "back to the city" movement will be on in force after Labor Day and the opening of city schools.

Foretaste of Autumn

Chicago, Aug. 29 (AP)—A foretaste of autumn spread over the middle west today as temperatures in three states dipped into the 30's or below. Low O'Leary, Wis., reported a minimum reading of 26 degrees, accompanied by a light frost. Other low temperatures included 36 at St. Cloud, Minn., 37 at Wausau, Wis., 38 at Spencer, Ia., and 39 at Madison, Wis. The forecast for Chicago, which had a low of 53 last night, was for a minimum of 45 tonight.

G.A.R. Commander

Indianapolis, Aug. 29 (AP)—John H. Grate, 101, a veteran of a cavalry unit who served under General Phil Sheridan, today was elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic. The 80th annual encampment—attended by 11 Civil War Union soldiers—closed with election of officers and announcement that the site of next year's meeting would be selected by the executive committee.

Ferry Use Arrives

At New Peak With 947 Cars Carried

to cross on the Mid-Hudson Bridge, it was said by Bridge Authority officials.

This morning at 11:20 o'clock there was a line of automobiles waiting for the ferry that extended from the ferry shed through Ferry street to Broadway, and up Broadway as far as Mill street. From Hasbrouck avenue to the ferry shed on Ferry street the line of cars was two abreast.

The ferry yesterday on its trips ferried 32 cars and trucks at a time both ways across the river. This morning an equal number was carried on each trip the ferry made.

Judging from statements made by officials of the State Bridge Authority another ferry could have been used successfully to convey traffic Wednesday.

Nude Swimmer Gives Policeman Merry Chase

North Bergen, N. J., Aug. 29 (AP)—An attractive 18-year-old girl swimming in the nude in the Hudson river gave two policemen in a rowboat a merry chase for an hour and a half today.

Lieutenant Arthur J. Foley and Patrolman Frank Robbins of the Hudson county police, who finally coaxed her into their craft, said she laughed at them as she sported in the river, swam under the hulks of sunken scows to elude them, and then rocked the boat and swished water at them as they rowed her to shore.

The policemen said the girl, whom they identified as Susan Zakar, of Fairview, told them she was practicing to swim the English channel.

The girl, dressed in overalls and slippers borrowed by the police from boat repair men on shore, was turned over to her mother. No charge was lodged against her.

100 Bidders Are

At Court House For Auction Today

Approximately 100 persons were present this morning at the court house when the first public auction of county owned property opened.

Pursuant to a resolution of the Board of Supervisors 122 parcels of land in the towns of Esopus, Hurley, Kingston and Ulster were offered for sale to the highest bidder, the parcels being those which have remained unredempted after being purchased by the county at various tax sales held prior to 1943.

Earl M. Sweet and William S. Keyser of the Hudson Valley Auctions, conducted the auction under the direction of County Attorney Fred Stang and Assistant County Attorney Raymond M. Mino.

Deputy County Treasurer Dwight McEntee acted as treasurer. At the time of purchase the successful bidders paid for the properties bid in and, subject to approval by the Board of Supervisors, a deed will be delivered to the new purchasers.

Charles Pollock of Ulster Park was the first successful bidder when he bid in Parcel 1, formerly owned by Mary Allen, a five acre tract in the town of Esopus. He bid $30.

Many of the properties were struck off at nominal figures with spirited bidding but in some instances there was some spirited competition. The first display of competition came when the Western tract in Port Jervis was offered for sale. This parcel was offered in blocks of several building lots and the bidding became lively at times with one black being run up by $5 bids to a total of $122.50.

Again when Parcel 33 was offered, many of the bidders, former owners, were offered there was spirited bidding for the 100 by 130 foot lot on Salem street, Port Jervis. It was finally struck off for $15.

Many of the parcels including woodland were sold for prices from $25 up to $50 and $85.

Prior to the opening of the sale six parcels were withdrawn from the sale, they being Parcels 11, in Esopus, Parcel 77 in Kingston town and Parcels 86, 93, 95 and 104 in Ulster.

No tax was due on any of the parcels until next January, Mr. Stang explained when he read the condition of sale prior to Auctioneer Sweet getting underway with the actual sale.

Japs Killed 280,000 Chinese at Nanking

Tokyo, Aug. 29 (AP)—Conquering, near-berserk Japanese troops slaughtered 280,000 Chinese in their bestial "rape of Nanking" in 1937, the War Crimes Tribunal was told today in a long series of documents from those who lived through the weeks of horror.

"This was a tragedy the like of which never has been known in history," said a Chinese report, read to the court which is trying former Premier Hideki Tojo and 26 others for war guilt.

Japanese civilian authorities, the report said, were unable to halt the rampaging victorious troops from rape, robbery, looting, murder and arson.

A report by Nelson T. Johnson, American ambassador to China at the time, said Japanese officials "were horrified when they saw the orgy of drunkenness, murder, rape and robbery . . . but failed to make any impression on the callous military commander who deliberately turned loose his men."

Hoffman Is Held For Theft of Car Upstate in August

Troopers Russell, Metzger Arrest Man Wednesday in Gardiner for Larceny

Myron L. Hoffman was arrested in the town of Gardiner yesterday by Sergeant J. W. Russell and Corporal John Metzger of the State Police on a warrant issued in Rensselaer county charging Hoffman with grand larceny, second degree, for the alleged taking of a Ford sedan from in front of the Y. Tavern at Petersburg, Rensselaer county, on the night of August 21.

Sergeant Russell from "C" Troop at Troy came to Ulster county and sought the assistance of Corporal Metzger in locating Hoffman, who it was stated had relatives in the town of Gardiner. Sergeant Russell stated that following an investigation of the theft and later abandonment of a 1938 Ford sedan at Petersburg, he had learned that it was alleged that Hoffman had taken the car and after driving a short distance from the tavern had wrecked the car against a tree. The car was abandoned there. A warrant was sworn out charging Hoffman with grand larceny and that warrant was served yesterday and Hoffman was taken back to Rensselaer county for arraignment. Corporal Metzger of "C" Troop, stationed at Highland, was asked to assist in locating Hoffman at Gardiner.

British Search

Two More Villages

Jerusalem, Aug. 29 (AP)—British troops continued today their painstaking search of two more Jewish villages and tightened security measures around a prison where 18 members of the so-called Stern gang are being held under sentence of death for sabotage.

Troops of the Sixth Airborne Division, coming through the villages of Dorot and Ruhama on the edge of Palestine's southern desert, found two signaling lamps, a mortar, a mine detector, military training pamphlets and a radio transmitter yesterday.

No reason was given for tightening the guard around Acre Prison, but an announcement concerning confirmation or commutation of death sentence of the 18 young Jews held there was expected at almost any time, and underground organizations have threatened reprisals in event the 18 die.

(In Paris, French police and Scotland Yard security officers have been alerted to guard against possible attacks in London that special measures had been taken to protect British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin following discovery of a purported Jewish plot to kill Bevin. These officials termed reports of the alleged plot "a silly rumor."

(The London reports said 14 Jews were "reported in Paris to have sworn 'to get' Bevin)."

Bad Nauheim, Germany, Aug. 29 (AP)—Col. James A. Kilian of Highland Park, Ill., former commander of the U. S. Army's replacement depot at Lichfield, England, was convicted today of permitting cruel and unusual punishment of American soldiers imprisoned in the depot guardhouse. Kilian was fined $500 and reprimanded by the seven-officer military court. The court convicted him after two days deliberation at the end of the 10-week trial.

Probe Is Voted

Paris, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Constituent Assembly voted today an investigation into the events of 1933-35, to fix responsibility for the defeat by the Germans and to propose "political and judicial sanctions." Leftist parties and Georges Bidault's M.R.P. joined in approving the proposal.

British Search Tel Aviv

New Delhi, Aug. 29 (AP)—Dawn, the journalistic voice of the Moslem League, declared today that the "battle to which Moslems of India are challenged and which seems inevitable is one that will either bring them on top or end in their extermination."

"When the strength of the Moslem was the strength of faith one Moslem could take on a score of others and emerge triumphant," said Dawn, founded by Moslem League President Mahomed Ali Jinnah. "It can be so again—it must be so again—if the Moslems in India are to survive the coming transition."

Study Has Given Keen Insight Into How People Live

Lack of Education Often Is Basic Reason for Backward Ways of Living

By WILLA MARTIN
(AP Newsfeatures Writer)

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—Thousands of American mothers must clothe their entire families on $100 a year or less. More than half the children of the United States lack essentials in their diets. More than 1,018,364 dwellings in the United States have no toilet facilities.

Such statistics as these set Dr. Harold F. Clark, Columbia University professor of education economics to thinking. He asked himself:

Are our low-income people living under these circumstances because they are lazy? Or has their education failed to suggest ways of improving their lots?

Dr. Clark believed the answer lay in the latter. Determined to prove his theory, he went to the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation and interested the industrialist and his brother, Harold, in making a study of eight schools in the lowest income areas in the United States. That was in 1939.

The foundation selected schools in three low income areas: The Appalachian mountains, Florida and Vermont. The basic plan was to find out if knowledge of local problems in housing, clothing and food could be taught to children in reading lessons and then in practical projects and so win them over that they would take this knowledge home and share it with their parents.

The foundation sought the aid of local educators, among them Miss Alida B. Fairbanks and Maurice Morrill of the University of Vermont, Leon Henderson of the University of Florida, Dr. William S. Taylor and Dr. Maurice Seay of the University of Kentucky.

Text Books Rewritten

With the help of teachers in small isolated schools, these educators rewrote text books. Children in Florida who had been learning about the boundaries between North and South Dakota found out about their own state's possibilities for winter gardens, for growing grass in sandy soil.

One school started a garden and served school lunches with the food the pupils had raised.

In Vermont where many children seemed to be out of school because of lack of clothing, the pupils learned to sew on buttons, to mend tears, to wash socks for longer wear, to unravel the wool from old garments. One little girl taught her grandmother the difficult cable stitch for knitting.

Another child, a tow-head in the fifth grade, was delighted when her teacher brought coat hangers for the rain and snow-soaked clothes they were hanging on pegs. She asked if she might take a hanger home so she might hang up her clothes at night and promised to return it. She did that, borrowing the hanger at night and returning it in the morning, for weeks. One day she no longer asked for the hanger. Her father had whittled her a hanger, she said proudly, "as good as the store-bought one."

So They Raised Goats
In a Kentucky school where thin, underfed children were found by the experimenters to be reading about goats in Switzerland, they were taught that they had the resources of Switzerland. They bought some, cared for them on daily trips to the pasture, wrote about these visits in class.

In one school the pupils learned so much about housing that a man in the neighborhood engaged them to build him a home.

"The plan has been successful because of the potentialities and humanness of the people served," says Dr. Clark with enthusiasm. "But nothing has been more helpful than the fact that all children are natural hobbyists and quick to become interested in something that they can make with their hands."

Cronin Decision Will Be Made by U. S. Coast Guard

American Farmer Skipper Faces Four Possible Verdicts; Gives Testimony

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—A decision will be made September 5 in the case of Capt. Arthur P. Cronin, charged with inattention to duty aboard the freighter American Farmer, which was abandoned at sea July 31, Coast Guard Comdr. William L. Maloney said yesterday.

The ship was in collision with the cattle boat William Riddle and now is subject of an international salvage dispute. Cronin was charged specifically with failing to conduct an examination "sufficiently adequate" of the American Farmer's condition before he left the vicinity in another freighter.

Four verdicts are possible, it was said—revocation of license, suspension of license, suspension with probation, or acquittal. Cronin testified briefly yesterday. He said the collision immediately brought to mind the sinking of another ship of which he was captain 15 minutes after it hit a mine off Australia in 1940. The ship was the City of Rayville, he said.

William C. McAfee, chief engineer of the American Farmer, another witness at today's hearing, said when he left the ship "the engine room was in normal good order for starting up again."

Frederick Wooley of (180 Rose Hill avenue) New Rochelle, N. Y., chief mate of the Farmer, testified he had volunteered to go back aboard the Farmer to inspect the ship but Capt. Cronin refused to give him permission.

He said the captain was afraid of loss of life and that he himself "was afraid the ship might go down any minute."

A hearing is scheduled to begin today in the case of Junior

Governor Asks Fats And Oils Be Saved

Pointing out that the collections have decreased continuously since the war's end, the Governor in a statement yesterday said: "Let's make sure that this fat finds its way to receiving stations at groceries whence it is sent to rendering plants."

Alcohol, Brandy Fire Damage $16,500,000

Fresno, Calif., Aug. 29 (AP)—A spectacular fire, fed by a million and a half gallons of alcohol and brandy, worth $16,500,000, last night destroyed a government warehouse for aging liquors about a mile south of here.

The blaze started on the loading platform of the Internal Revenue Bonded Warehouse No. 52, and wind whipped the flames to the roof.

John M. Damron, area gauger for the federal alcohol tax unit who provided the estimate of loss, said the tax alone on the spirits when moved into trade would have been $9 a gallon. He said owners might have expected to net $1.60 to $2.50 a gallon.

Twelve members of the paid fire department took the promotional examination for fire captain, while two took the examination for deputy fire chief, last night at the city hall.

The examinations were held by the Municipal Civil Service Board to compile an eligible list from which appointments may be made by the Board of Fire Commissioners.

The examination papers had been prepared by the State Civil Service Board, which will also mark them, and announce the ratings made by the applicants.

Three Veterans Winners in Exams For Scholarships

Ralph Grothkopp of 41 Downs street and John Rasmus Hansen of 169 Pine street, Kingston and Patrick D'Ambrosio of 90 Partition street, Saugerties, have been awarded State War Service Scholarships as a result of competitive examination held August 1. These awards become effective September 1.

There are issued to veterans of each county eight times as many scholarships as there are Assembly districts in the county, except that in New York city eight scholarships are awarded for each Assembly district and the awards are made to the city at large. Whenever the number of eligible candidates in any county is less than the number of scholarships allocated to the county, these vacant scholarships are awarded in order of merit from a statewide list of eligible candidates who did not qualify for an original award in their county or in New York city.

The holder of one of these scholarships on meeting the requirements for admission, will be entitled to such tuition and fees as were in effect January 1, 1944, at any college, university, business, professional, vocational, technical or trade school selected by him, provided the institution of his choice is located in New York state and approved by the Board of Regents. Payments will be made directly to the institution in the holder's behalf in a total amount not to exceed $350 a year and for not more than four years, provided the holder is in regular attendance and in good standing. In an institution operating under an accelerated program, the scholarship will cover charges up to $325 a fiscal year, but not to exceed the total funds available under the scholarship.

The third series of 1,200 State War Service Scholarships was established under chapter 929 of the Laws of 1946 for veterans of World War I or World War 2. These scholarships are not in addition to other scholarships or benefits, either state or federal. In case more than one scholarship of benefit is available, the holder must elect immediately which he will accept.

Battle of Generals Seems Assured at G.O.P. Convention

Donovan Says He Will Run for Senate, While Drum Advocates Gird for Fight

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—A floor fight at the Republican State Convention between two battle-tested generals appeared assured today in the wake of a declaration by William J. Donovan that he was an all-out candidate for the party's nomination for the U. S. Senate and renewed indications by Governor Dewey's lieutenants that they were standing confidently pat on Hugh A. Drum.

Donovan, Congressional Medal of honor winner in World War I and head of the office of Strategic Service in the second global conflict, declared yesterday he would "take the fight all the way to the convention" next Tuesday and Wednesday at Saratoga Springs.

The 63-year-old major general, now practicing law, said at a press conference in New York he knew "pretty well what support we have" among convention delegates and added: "Of course, it's substantial."

Donovan's declaration loomed as a challenge to Dewey's high command which capitol observers believe will dominate the convention and which has disclosed support of 66-year-old Lt. Gen. Drum, a veteran of three wars and Dewey's military adviser in the 1944 presidential campaign.

Choice of High Command
Drum emerged as choice of the G.O.P. high command last week when State Republican Chairman Glen R. Bedenkapp announced, after a meeting of the state executive committee in Albany, that there "was more sentiment today for General Drum than for any other candidate."

In an interview here yesterday, after conferring with representatives of a New York city veterans group supporting Drum, Bedenkapp said he did not "recall" any sentiment among executive committee members in favor of Donovan's nomination.

Donovan was the first and to date only aspirant to declare himself a candidate for nomination on the Republican ticket.

In New York city today George H. Sibley, manager of Donovan's campaign, announced that former Assistant Secretary of War John S. McCloy, former Assistant Secretary of the Navy H. Struve Hensel and Archie O. Dawson, executive director of the Dewey-for-Governor campaign in 1942, had declared for General Donovan.

Drum, head of the corporation which operates the Empire State Building, has not announced his candidacy.

Governor Dewey and other members of the so-called "first team" also have remained silent but are expected to be "drafted" at next week's convention. The other members are Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley, Attorney General Nathaniel L. Goldstein and Comptroller Frank C. Moore.

Meanwhile, Democrats who will meet Tuesday and Wednesday in Albany for their convention, were expected to name Senator James M. Mead as Dewey's opponent for governor and former Governor Herbert H. Lehman as candidate for the Senate.

Lady Cashier Is Unruffled When Gunman Demands

Chicago, Aug. 29 (AP)—Miss Veronica Gore, 28, was busy counting the receipts in her cashier's cage at a loop restaurant near closing time last night when a man walked up and told her to give him the money.

Miss Gore, she told central police, thought the man was joking, although he carried a pistol. She kept busy counting the money in the cash register.

But the robber was adamant. He wanted the money, he insisted, but Miss Gore excused herself as Herbert E. Case, a patron, came to the cashier's cage for some matches.

Then the gunman repeated his demands and told Miss Gore he was not joking; he told Case that he came to the restaurant only to obtain money by larcenous methods and the cashier should believe him.

Miss Gore told police that as the gunman refused to leave he finally convinced her that he was holding her up. She said she handed him $90—all in $1 bills.

Building Service Workers Return to Their Jobs

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—Service in 17 apartment buildings in Morningside Heights, where approximately 100 members of Local 32-B, Building Service Employees International Union (A.F.L.) struck for three days, was back to normal this morning, the public information office of Columbia University, owner of the buildings, reported.

Elevator, switchboard and maintenance service in the buildings had been affected by the walkout over a maintenance of membership clause in a proposed contract between the union and university.

The strike ended last night by an agreement signed through the State Mediation Board. Arbitration of any dispute on the maintenance of membership provision was called for in the settlement.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

Waiting for Dog
Chicago, Aug. 29 (AP)—It was roll call at the Warren avenue police station when seven-year-old Mary Howtana dashed past some 20 policemen, pinned a message on the bulletin board, and made a hasty retreat.

Policemen read her message: "Dog lost. If found please return to Mary Howtana waiting at Madison and California."

When police went to Madison and California they found Mary. She wouldn't tell them where she had lost the dog, but she said here until they find my dog.

Bothersome Dead Fish
St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 29 (AP)—A fish out of water can cause a lot of trouble sometimes. Says F. L. Steinbright, superintendent of the Northern Pacific Railway Telegraph.

He said a nine-inch bullhead lodged on the cross arm of a 30-foot pole on one of the railway's telegraph circuits near Lombard, Mont., acted as a conductor between a live wire and a grounded wire, thus killing the circuit.

He said the fish probably was dropped by a fishhawk or osprey.

Witness
Los Angeles, Aug. 29 (AP)—I know you won't believe this," Jim Moreland told attendants at a police hospital, "but I was here."

"I'd just parked my car. My wife, Mary, and I started for the grocery. I had a $10 bill in my hand. The car's brakes must have slipped, because the next thing I knew it had followed us about 100

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HANK KERSTING
(For Hal Boyle)

Groningen, Holland, Aug. 29 (AP)—Playing of national anthems in honor of the 20 chess masters from 13 countries competing in a four-weeks tournament here is causing some confusion and bringing not a few mixed memories to the contenders.

Most of the participants in the tournament, which ends September 7, can claim at least two nationalities, and a jig-saw puzzle could not be more fascinating than trying to sort out the international hodge-podge.

At one of the official dinners, the Belgian anthem was played for Irish-born Alberto O'Kelly De Galway, and the Polish anthem for Michiel Najdorf, a resident of Argentina for eight years, who stood in rapt attention when the Argentine national song was sung for Carlos Guimard of Buenos Aires.

But the Polish tune undoubtedly sounded familiar to Russian-born Dr. Xavelli Tartakower, a former Polish citizen, who now is French. The orchestra played The Marseillaise for him and for Russian-born Dr. Ossip Bernstein, but both were more than casually acquainted with the Russian anthem played for the Soviet representatives.

The Hungarian national song was for Laszlo Szabo, but indirectly, too, for the American Herman Steiner of Los Angeles. But Steiner, if his memories went back far enough, also probably was moved by the Czech anthem played for Cenek Kottbauer, for he came originally from a region alternately belonging to Hungary and Czechoslovakia. The Russian Szalo Flohr also was once a Czech.

The American champion Arnold S. Denker, although born of German parents, could listen to the Star Spangled Banner with undivided allegiance, as could 21-year-old Abe Yanovsky to the Canadian anthem since he was only four months old when his parents left their home in Polish territory which now is Russian.

The situation was simple for Dr. Max Euwe of The Netherlands, Erik Lundin and Gosta Stoltz of Sweden and Martin Christoffel of Switzerland, but less so for Tournament Director Hans Kmoch, an Austrian who is applying for Dutch citizenship.

The climax of confusion came when the orchestra began to play the Yugoslavian anthem. Everyone stood up, but after the first few bars, Yugoslav Professor Milan Vidmar of Ljubljana, whose brother is president of the Slovenian republic, sat down again, because, he said:

"There is too much difference between the old and the new time and between the old and the new anthem that I should remain upright."

July Loans Ran Into High Total, O'Connor Reports

According to figures just released by C. R. O'Connor, executive vice president and treasurer, Homeowners' Savings and Loan Association of Kingston, savings and loan associations in the State of New York loaned a total of $26,138,340 for the purchase, construction, modernization and repair of homes during the month of July, 1946. This is the sixth new monthly record established by these associations during this year, exceeding the previous record established in June by 7.3 per cent or $1,773,236. Of the total amount of loans made $10,999,262 or 42.2 per cent was loaned to veterans of World War II on loans guaranteed by the Veterans Administration.

Loans for the purchase of homes amounted to $19,291,987 while $4,199,340 was loaned for the construction of new homes, $1,237,649 was loaned for refinancing of existing loans and $1,419,464 was loaned for repairs, modernization and all other purposes.

Mr. O'Connor further stated that during the same period the Homeowners' Savings and Loan Association loaned $167,063 of which $143,765 was for the purchase of homes; $10,500 was for the construction of new homes; $8,300 was loaned to refinance existing loans, and $1,500 was loaned for repairs, modernization and all other purposes. The number of "G.I." loans totaled 20 for an amount of $83,715.

Assets of the association for the seven months of 1946 increased from $3,323,879 on January 1 to $4,421,045 on July 31st, an increase of $1,097,166 for the period.

In South Africa a native white, especially a Dutchman, is called an Afrikaner.

Rent Executives Will Confer at Saratoga Springs

Will Discuss the Problems of Present and Make Future Plans at Meeting

Lester W. Herzog, director of the 16-county Albany area of the Office of Price Administration announced today that a regional conference of district rent executives, district rent attorneys, area rent directors and area rent attorneys will be held September 9, 10 and 11, at the Worden Hotel, Saratoga Springs.

The sessions, Mr. Herzog added, will be devoted to discussions of current field problems, future operating plans and new programs contemplated.

Mr. Herzog who will formally welcome the executives from Region 2, which comprises New York, Delaware, District of Columbia, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, estimated that about one hundred persons will be in attendance.

J. J. Scofield, regional rent executive, from New York city, who announced today that the United States Emergency Court of Appeals has turned down in a test case a landlord's application for 15 per cent increase in apartment rentals will preside at the conference.

Francis X. Riley, area rent executive of the Albany district office who will attend the conference, said that seven counties within the Albany Office of Price Administration area are now under control. The counties, he said, are Albany, Schenectady, Rensselaer, Saratoga, Washington, Warren and Montgomery counties. He declined to say when other counties in the area would be brought under rent control but intimated there had been widespread agitation by veterans, labor and civic groups, for rent control in a number of counties within the Albany area.

Army Has Invention For Parachuting Material

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Army Air Forces announced today the invention of a U-shaped recoil tube firing "bullets" of sand to slow the fall of parachuting jeeps, guns and other heavy equipment dropped for airborne forces.

The tube contains an explosive charge in the bent portion. This is set off just before the equipment lands, driving containers of sand toward the ground from the tube's two open ends. The recoil—like that of a shotgun—is exerted in the opposite direction.

The recoil, said the announcement, almost stops the heaviest loads. What remains of the drop is like "falling off a chair."

Health for All

Understanding TB Patient

The family of the tuberculosis patient can aid him greatly if a sincere effort is made to understand his problems. In entering a sanatorium for treatment, the patient may be separated from home for the first time. Naturally, he is homesick and anxious.

Since tuberculosis is a disease affecting the whole body, the patient is irritable at times, perhaps for the first time in his life. He cannot understand his irritability, so believes there must be something wrong with his new surroundings. He may be worried about his own condition, without being aware of this.

Such anxiety is apt to show itself in his general attitude toward his fellow patients, those working about him, or his family. His requests may seem unreasonable, but to the patient they are very important and real.

Sometimes a patient finds "an escape" in being able to complain to someone about the food, the nurses, his lack of privacy, or the boring routine, and so he pours out all his grievances to members of the family when they visit him. These may not be pleasant topics of conversation but if it relieves the patient, it is the duty of the visitor to be sympathetic. The complaints may be well founded at times.

The patient needs to be encouraged to get well. He needs an incentive to follow doctor's orders. Only then will he cooperate with the hospital and the staff. He needs to want to get well.

Probably never before in his life has the patient had so much solitude, so much time to think. He should be helped to spend his time thinking constructive thoughts. After awhile, he will be able to face his new life with renewed hope and faith.

The fact that a patient must rest does not mean that he can have no interests. He should not be shut out from the world. He should be made to feel he still has a part in the life beyond the hospital walls, the life to which he will eventually return. The family can do even more than the doctor in keeping his interests alive. The family should try to understand that it is important to keep the patient interested in the world outside. Since the patient is in a rather helpless position, the emphasis should be on happy events. The patient should not be made anxious about circumstances he cannot change.

In the next article, giving the child a healthy start in school, will be discussed.

The church was decorated with greens and white summer flowers. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Thomas G. Grant. She wore a white tulle and net gown with veil attached to a Juliet cap. She carried a cascade of white gladioli. Her cousin, Miss Jane Gray, of Buffalo, as maid of honor and only attendant, wore a gown of light blue tulle and carried a cascade of pink gladioli. The bride's mother wore a pink crepe dress with black accessories and corsage of white gladioli. Sibley A. Lenfest of Malden, Mass., was best man for his brother. Ushers were Charles F. Grant, brother of the bride, and Charles W. Reck, both of Ellenville. A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother where the wedding party received 150 guests. Garden flowers were used for decorations and Mrs. James Mansfield assisted the bride's mother. Lt. and Mrs. Lenfest left for a wedding trip through New England. ### Villetta Players Choose Spanish and Mexican Plays for Production

Following their production of two modern Scandinavian one-act plays, the Villetta Studio Players will continue their policy of offering the works of little known dramatists by presenting a short play of the Spanish poet-dramatist, Garcia Lorca, "Don Perlimpin and Belisa," and a colorful Mexican folk comedy by Josepina Niggli, "The Red Velvet Coat." Miss Niggli's play is a bright and amusing example of national drama, essentially Mexican in psychology and characterization. "Don Perlimpin and Belisa" is a fine example of the work of this consummate stylist whose ideas emerge clearly from the rich folklore of his native land. Garcia Lorca lived and worked in Spain during the between-wars period which was a renaissance in Spanish letters. Such men as Ayala, Miro, Ramon Gomez de la Serna and Antonio Machado were exerting tremendous influence upon the development of younger writers. Lorca, of all these significant writers of the Spanish literary renaissance is best known to the English speaking world. His career was cut short, as were the careers of many of Spain's finest writers, by the war.

This production is scheduled for four evenings, beginning Friday at 8:40 p. m., and will be the final one of the season. Both plays will be directed by a talented young member of the Villetta Studio Players, Jose Quintana. Mr. Quintana was born in Panama City, Panama, and came to the United States in 1943 to study medicine. The theatre, however, soon lured him from a doctor's profession, and he attended Los Angeles City College for two years, then went to the Goodman School of the Theatre in Chicago. Mr. Quintana expresses himself as "being interested in helping the voices of Central and South American playwrights to be heard here in the States." His plans for the winter include the translation of such new works to be included, if of sufficient merit, in the production plans of the Villetta Studio Players for next season.

Block Party

There will be a block party at the home of Mrs. Redmond, 48 Meadow street, Friday, for the benefit of the church window fund. Emanuel Baptist Church, Chicken dinner and home-made ice cream will be served.

WHEN THE WAR-WOUNDED ARE OUR GUESTS

To one who asks if there are any special directions of courtesy to remember when a blind friend is coming for dinner, the following is my advice: The most important rule is to choose a big plate for him and tell him what is on it. For the main course, if several items are put on his plate, he is told where they are located by giving directions according to the hour hand of a clock. For example: Beef goulash is at 12 o'clock, mashed potatoes at 3, string beans at 6, stewed corn at 9. Or, to avoid giving him what he does not care for, he can be served each item separately. "Will you have the light or dark meat of turkey? Or a little of both? I'll cut them and bring them to you in one moment." When coming back, tell him, "The turkey is at 6 o'clock." Then, when the vegetables are passed, tell him where they are being placed. It is best to avoid putting his food on a small plate. Lettuce on a small flat plate is hard for anyone to manage, but doubly hard for one who can't see. Bowls are best. For one lately blinded and not yet expert, stewed fruit or anything to be eaten with a spoon is eaten more easily from a bowl against the sides of which he can press his spoon and not push the food off. It also is advised that no side dishes be set around his plate except bread (already buttered) on the bread and butter plate. The above advice is part of a slip which I have had printed in answer to those who have asked about being helpful to their guests who have been blinded or otherwise wounded. I shall be very glad to send this to anyone who sends me a self-addressed, 3-cent stamped envelope in care of Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

The bride wore a gray afternoon dress with navy accessories and a corsage of gardenias. She was given in marriage by her father, Miss Jean T. Heister of Poughkeepsie, attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a beige afternoon dress with brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue ensemble with corsage of red roses. William Beal of Poughkeepsie acted as the bridegroom's best man. Ushers were Ray Pull and Fred Fowler. A reception was held at the home of the bride after which Mr. and Mrs. Smith left for a wedding trip. They will live in Clintondale. ### Maverick Theatre Announces 10-Week Season Next Year Including Revival of Festival

The Maverick Theatre under the management of Capt. C. H. D. van der Loo has announced its plans for a 1947 season which will include a revival of The Maverick Festival. The old historic theatre founded by Hervey White is being renovated to provide comfort to its audiences while retaining the original rustic atmosphere. During the 10-week season the management plans to produce several major Broadway productions, classics from the Greek, Shakespeare and modern fields and an original play prior to its Broadway showing. An outstanding event will be the revival of the Maverick Festival which retains its place in the memory of many people. Hervey White originated the festival as an expression of all arts, especially by young talent and an opportunity will be provided to renew this belief during the entire season. It is hoped that the festival can again be a community affair in which everyone can participate and build towards a realization of Hervey White's dream. The new management intends to promote his aesthetic ideals in the drama, writing, sculpturing and painting as it has done by continuing his [Maverick Sunday Concerts since his death in 1944].

42 Youths Try-Out for Hudson Valley Junior Baseball Club

Second Practice Scheduled Friday At Uptown Field

Initial Squad Sliced Down to 25 Players: Intra-Camp Game on Tap for Friday Afternoon

A total of 42 determined young ball players responded to the first call of the Kingston Athletic Association Wednesday afternoon at municipal stadium in quest of berths on the Hudson Valley Junior team which will meet the Brooklyn Dodger Juniors at the uptown park next Tuesday night.

Culliton in Charge

Judge Bernard Culliton, former big league player, who will manage the Hudson Valley club, was in charge of yesterday's long workout and expressed satisfaction after the boys left the diamond and went under the stands for showers.

"We don't have much time to devote to the mechanical side of the game," Manager Culliton told the Freeman, "and as a result we're going to have an intra-camp game Friday afternoon when our second practice session gets underway at 1 o'clock."

Following the initial rehearsal Wednesday, Manager Culliton and Charlie Tiano compared notes on the various players and told the press that 25 of the 42 hopefuls are requested to report for Friday's second drill at 1 o'clock at the stadium. "We're pressed for time," the selection committee said, "and thus, we're forced to make a big cut in the list of boys."

The players still on the squad and who must report Friday are as follows: Infielders—Ed Weaver, Ken Steltz, Al Vogt, George Glaser, Bill Tierney, Charlie Walczak, Gus Koch, Mick Rienzo, Frank Ebelheiser and Bob Roe. The retained outfielders are Adam Fiore, Ken Lowe, Joe Gardeski, Dick Dulin, Bob Gheare, Don Schultz, Ed Crosby and Bob Gorsline. The only catcher on the list is Bill Glaser who was retained of course. All of the pitchers have been kept and they are as follows: Johnny Watzka, Jack Campbell, Dick Scherer, John "Tex" Brown and Cy Brown.

Assisting Culliton and Tiano at the stadium Wednesday were Jim Voelker and Jimmy Morgan, former well-known semi-pro stars of the city.

After a long batting drill in which all of the players took part, a quick infield workout was held with Manager Culliton bawling them around to the hopefuls. The infield combination found Rienzo and Bill Tierney holding forth. Later Ken Steltz, "Zekie" Zelic, Gus Koch and others took part.

Another Drill Saturday

The third workout of the local contestants will be held Saturday afternoon at the stadium starting at 2 o'clock at which time players from other parts of the Hudson Valley will be on hand to join in with the practice.

Try-Out Camp at Stadium Wednesday

The municipal stadium was a busy scene of baseball doings Wednesday afternoon when 42 local hopefuls reported for the first try-out camp sponsored by the Kingston Athletic Association. Players who are selected from the group will perform with the Hudson Valley Juniors in a game against the Brooklyn Dodger Juniors next Tuesday night at the uptown park. (Freeman Photo.)

Wahl's .422 Paces Rec Club For Big Game Here Saturday

Keller Replaces Tom Henrich As Guest at Tuesday's Game

Two More Saugerties Men Added to Roster of Hudson Valley Junior Team

Two-thirds of the great New York Yankee outfield will be special guests of Fred Davi, local baseball enthusiast, at the night game between the Hudson Valley Juniors, sponsored by the Kingston Athletic Association, and the Brooklyn Dodger Juniors next Tuesday at municipal stadium.

Charlie Keller, better known to his Yankee Stadium backers as "Kung Kong", will be the third Yankee favorite to appear here next week instead of Tommy Henrich as previously announced. The news of Keller's coming was telegraphed to Fred Davi yesterday by George Stirmweiss, popular Yankee infielder, who will also be here to make it one of the biggest baseball nights in history.

In addition to Keller and Stirmweiss, Davi is bringing at his own expense, Joe DiMaggio, the celebrated Yankee Clipper, who is scheduled to throw out the first ball before the Hudson Valley-Brooklyn Dodger Junior game starts next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock.

Meanwhile, interest is still at a high pitch for next week's big archrival game according to Tommy Davitt, president of the Kingston Athletic Association who has been burning the midnight candles in preparation for the contest.

Brice, Doyle Added

Two additional Saugerties players were added to the Hudson Valley Junior roster yesterday with the announcement that Barry Brice, first baseman, and Joe Doyle, third baseman, who have been highly recommended by Larry Cahill, high school coach at Saugerties, will report for Saturday's practice. The other Saugerties player already signed for the game is Bill Kaufman, promising hurler, who is expected to see some action against the Brooklyn team.

Little is known of Kaufman's record this year but baseball experts say the young finger has great prospects for a possible big league trial. One of Kaufman's teammates of the year came in the game with the strong Newburgh Grandstand Tavern team when he came through with a victory in a pitcher's duel with Jack McCormick.

Another out-of-towner is expected to report for Saturday's practice session at the stadium is Blair Davis, highly-touted player from Newburgh who is slated to try-out for an outfield berth with the Hudson Valley Juniors.

Evidence exists that the Japanese printed from wood blocks as early as the eighth century.

Three Players Over .300 Mark Set to Battle Poughkeepsie Club at City Stadium

Manager Joe Hoffman will throw three .300 swingers or better against the right-handed slants of John "Whitey" Tulacz at municipal stadium Saturday night when the Kingston Recreationists tackle the Poughkeepsie Roe Movers under the big arc lights.

Wahl Leads Parade

Big Joe Wahl, Kingston's slugging first baseman, is still leading the pack as the season comes down the homestretch with a gaudy .422 mark. Wahl has cracked out 35 base knocks so far in 83 trips to the plate and has averaged .422 in 16 games. Wahl's potent bat also has accounted for a total of 17 runs batted in. He has poled out one homer, three triples and four doubles at the uptown orchard this year.

Following behind Wahl's leading .422 clip comes George Peaderston, the local "hot corner" operator who has been showing better defensive form at his slot the last couple of games. Peaderston, swinging from the third base side, has batted .346 so far this year with his 28 hits in 81 trips.

Steve Ristau, Hoffman's able leftfielder, who so far this year has played the most consistent ball of any player on the squad, comes in the third position with his .304 mark. Ristau has collected 24 bingles in 79 trips and has scored 18 runs.

The rest of the Recreation lumbard department is below the charmed .300 circle from Frank Bambara's .280 to Johnny Gentile's .222. Bambara has made a liked his average almost to the .300 department.

Gentile's .222 and Bill Shelly's .263 clips complete the infield set up for the Recs. In the outfield the other starting fly-chaser for Saturday's brawl is Billy Ostrom who is down to an unexpected low of .233. However, with a couple of fences around, Ostrom's mark for the year would be near the .300 also. In every game the Poughkeepsie youth has bargued out a lot of lone drives only to be caught by roaming outfielders of the visiting teams.

Either Lou Motzer or Lou Corrigan will get the call to catch for Dick Fitzgerald, lean right-hander, in Saturday's big game with Poughkeepsie. Motzer hasn't seen action with the local combo since the New York Firemen contest and his absence has been sorely felt by Manager Hoffman. Motzer was on the coaching lines last Saturday night with a handage around his wrist. Whether he'll be ready to don the mask this week remains to be seen. Motzer is currently hitting .250 while Corrigan's average is .240.

Following are the complete averages of the Recreationists as compiled by Irwin J. Thomas, Freeman sports editor:

	AB	R	H	AVG
Thomas	2	0	1	.500
Wahl	83	16	35	.422
Peaderston	81	12	28	.346

Albany Handicap Is Day's Feature At Saratoga Track

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 29.—The 44th running of the $7,500 Albany Handicap, a six-furlong dash for two-year-olds, will feature the racing program at Saratoga today.

Deering Howe's Donor heads the field of eight juveniles named for the fixture, topweighted at 124 pounds.

Others expected to start are the Mill River Stable's Mr. John, under 116 pounds; E. P. Taylor's Cornish Knight, 114; Allen T. Simmons' Eternal War, 112; the Wheatley Stable's Kerry; Lazy F. Ranch's Nathaniel; Mrs. Samuel Pistorio's Golden Bull and C. V. Whitney's Bastogne, all at 108.

Donor, who defeated Cornish Knight in his last start at Saratoga, looks as the odds-on choice. The Mill River Stable's Mr. John, a four-year-old Argentine importation, won the eighth running of the Diana Handicap which topped yesterday's program before 14,779, largest weekday crowd since opening day.

The chestnut daughter of Rolando-Cedulla covered the mile and a furlong in 1:50.15, only a fifth of a second off the track record set by Sun Briar in 1919, and defeated seven other fillies by a length to pay $6.80.

Conn McCreary scored a double aboard the inner, who carried top weight of 124 pounds in earning first money of $9,150. The victory enabled McCreary to take a narrow lead for riding honors at the meeting, with 16 winners compared to 15 for Eric Guerin.

Alfred Vanderbilt's Jackawake finished second, five lengths in front of the favorite, Larry LaMontagne's Sicily who outfinished Mahmoodess for the show. Mrs. W. M. Jeffords' Dawn Attack captured the $4,000 Tiedora prize which served as the secondary feature. The gelding stepped under the six furlongs in 1:10.4/5 under Ted Atkinson. Edmunge was second and Cheryba third.

Parchment, which preceded paper, was made from sheepskin or goatskin, vellum from calfskin.

Holland's production of cement is about 30,000 tons monthly.

Final Outcome

The Texas Lunch Bruins upset the Subway Grill's second half title drive Wednesday night at Loughran Park by punching out an 11 to 4 triumph. Ed Lowe hurled four-hit ball for the winners. The Bruins were paced by Ed Crosby who poled out a triple and two singles. Ben Toffel, the loser, was punished for 16 hits.

The Bruins scored three to start the game on singles by Roy Geisler, a fielder's choice and Babe Larkin's big double. The Lunchmen came back with four in the second on singles by Robinson, Lowe, a walk, Crosby's three-bagger and a fielder's choice.

In the bottom half of the second the Subway team tallied a run without a hit. Three walks and a long outfield fly pushed over the run. In the fifth the Bruins added four "insurance" markers on hits by Ten Brock, Emmick, Lowe, Roe, Cooper and Crosby.

The losers put on a belated three-run spurge in the sixth on hits by Plattner, Bigler, a pair of free tickets, and a single by Simmons.

Better Golf

By SAM SNEAD

4. Notice in the picture at the left the position of the player's head. He has turned it slightly to the right, and will hold it in that fixed position throughout the back-swing and down through contact. The reason for so fixing the head while in the address position is so that it will remain immovable. Now I hope that our alert readers have noticed a golfing flaw in each of these three pictures. And, certainly, I would expect every reader who has received my free Diagram explaining the Correct Stances for Every Club, to detect this flaw. The ball in each picture is positioned too far forward. For correct position, this ball should be moved to the player's right about three inches. That would bring it about two inches forward of center between the player's heels. In this correct position, the club will contact the ball just as the clubhead has reached the low point in the swing. This would put the golf face on the ball correctly for long, straight flight. But positioned in the way shown by these pictures would very likely produce a topped shot.

West Point Plebes
Join the "Long Gray Line"

At a review to be held on the plain at West Point Friday at 5:30 p. m., 839 new cadets of the fourth class, U. S. Military Academy, will be formally presented to the Corps of Cadets. The provisional fourth class regiment will march onto the parade to a position facing the Corps, after which there will be a mutual exchange of honors. The "plebes" will then be marched to join their respective companies in formation.

The fourth classmen, who have just completed a vigorous course of basic military instruction, will remain in these companies for the duration of the four-year courses at the Military Academy. Thus will begin an association lasting not only throughout their cadet days, but throughout their respective army careers.

Scoring all of their runs in the first inning off Joe Enright, the Berardi Oilers maintained their winning ways in the second half of the City Softball League last night by bashing out a 5 to 1 victory over Worfs.

An error, a walk and successive base hits by J. Berardi, L. Berardi, B. Watzka and Finkle pushed across five runs in the first before Enright could find himself. After his hectic opening frame the Worftwiler settled down and went on to pitch two-hit ball the rest of the game.

Worfs prevented a shutout against them in the fourth on a double by Coughlin and a singleton by Saxe.

Milly Berardi went all the way for the winners while Joe Watzka did the catching. Berardi limited the losers to five scattered hits. Enright and Tomaseski formed the losing battery.

Fight for Kalgan
Probably to Come;
Defenses Stronger

Nanking, Aug. 29 (AP)—A fight for Kalgan, Communist stronghold in Chahar province, appeared likely today as government troops pushed their northern offensives with fresh fury.

Government circles, meantime, expressed fear that the Shansi province rail hub of Tatung, under Communist siege for nearly a month, finally had fallen after withstanding two dozen attacks.

Communists at Kalgan were reported strengthening the outer defenses of that "second capital" in the face of government movements to the south. Government sources said the initiative in fighting at Nankou, strategic pass south of Kalgan, and along the Peiping-Kalgan railroad.

Casualties apparently were heavy on both sides, said the pro-government Peiping newspaper Hsin Min Pao.

Nationalist troops were reported only 17 miles from Chihfeng, important city in Central Jehol province, after occupying Chaoyang, on the Chengteh-Chinchow railroad.

The Communists launched strong attacks on Antshusien, on the Peiping-Tientsin railroad, and Tien-chung, on the Peiping-Mukden line, government sources said. Government sources said six trains which left Mukden yesterday had failed to arrive at Peiping, probably because of Communist activity along the line.

The situation in the north was becoming so serious Gen. Cheng Tung-Kuo, deputy commander of all government troops in Manchuria, established headquarters at Chinchow to direct the fighting from closer range.

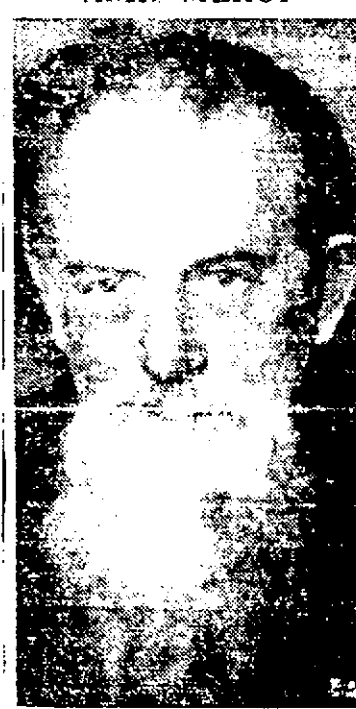

Chinese Communists suggested today they would consider setting up their own separate "national government" rather than accept any new constitution adopted by an assembly from which they were excluded.

Party spokesman Wang Ping-Nan voiced the threat in objecting to the scheduled Constitutional Assembly meeting next November 12. A coalition must be formed first, he insisted, and Communists given representation in the constitution-adopting body.

His Fare Is Paid

Philadelphia, Aug. 29 (AP)—Twenty-three-year-old John Walters stepped off a streetcar last night, then remembered he'd forgotten to pay his fare. Recrossing the street he shouted to the conductor who extended a hand through the window to receive the 7½ cent token. Walters turned to go back to the sidewalk, was struck by another trolley. He suffered forehead lacerations that required five stitches at a hospital.

furnished the teacher on the opening day of school. Parents should make certain that these records are returned to them.

The parents of all children entering the kindergarten are urged to accompany the child on the first day, Tuesday, so that conference may be arranged between the teacher and the parent regarding each child.

Special instructions regarding the opening of the Myron J. Michael School on Tuesday morning,
September 3:

In the Myron J. Michael School all students who will attend the Ninth Year in that building are to report at 8:30 a. m. on Tuesday. They are to report in the gymnasium.

All students entering the Eighth
Year in the Myron J. Michael School will report on Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock in the gymnasium.

"New" students does not apply to students who attended public or private schools in Kingston last year.

Special instructions concerning the opening of Kingston High School on Tuesday morning, September 3, 8:30 a. m.:

All "old" students are to report at 8:30 a. m. and occupy the home rooms which they had last term.
It is planned on the first day to excuse these students about 12 noon. After Tuesday, however, it is planned to run school on a full day schedule with cafeteria service at noon. Included with the so-called "old" students will be those transferring from other high schools in other cities. All such students transferring from other high schools are to report also at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday morning and go directly to room 151 across from the principal's office until permanent home rooms are assigned.

All servicemen who have already done some high school work will be classified as "old" students and they are to report at 8:30 a. m.
Tuesday morning and go directly to room 152 across from the principal's office until assigned elsewhere.

By "new" students we mean all those who are entering high school for the first time either from the city of Kingston or from rural districts and also all those who are entering high school for the first time either from the city of Kingston or from rural districts and also all those who are transferring either as beginning 9th year students or more advanced from the Myron J. Michael School. All "new" students as defined above are to report to the Kingston High School at 1 p. m.
Tuesday afternoon and go directly to the high school auditorium. They are to be sure to have pens or pencils with them and if non-residents are to be sure to know the name of their school trustee, school district and the town (township) in which they reside. This information is necessary in order to make a good registration. It is planned to dismiss the "new" students about 3:15

Tuesday afternoon. Beginning
Wednesday, however, all students will be expected to attend the full day session and be prepared to provide their lunch either in the school cafeteria or by bringing from home.

Every student, old and new, will be provided with an individual schedule which he is to use exactly as indicated. Under no conditions is there to be any change in schedules until announced later.

No short schedules will be allowed unless shown to the principal and approved by him. The principal further advises that this matter of short schedules be attended to before school opens Tuesday morning. The principal will be in his office every day this week including Saturday morning and Monday afternoon, September
2. Servicemen who desire short schedules must attend to this matter just as the other students.

All seniors are hereby warned that according to the rules of the State Department of Education
all graduates of January and June 1947 must have credit for the Health course of one unit or as an alternative, one-half unit of Health and General Biology. It is their responsibility at the opening of school to see to it that this health requirement is taken care of on their schedules, provided it has not already been done. The point is that the mere omission of the health course from the schedule does not excuse the student from meeting the health requirements for graduation in 1947.

Mysterious Rocket
Crash Is Reported

Copenhagen, Aug. 29 (AP)—Dispatches from Aalborg in Northern Jutland today quoted residents of a small village in that area as saying a mysterious rocket had crashed and exploded just outside the hamlet Wednesday night.
One woman, the dispatches said,

reported she was standing in her garden when the sky was lit by the yellowish glow from a strange missile which passed overhead.

The object crashed with an explosion that was followed "by something that looked like a rain of stars," she added.

B'nai B'rith Charges May End in Klan Probe

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 29 (AP)—Governor Edward Martin said today he would immediately order an investigation into activities of the Ku Klux Klan in Pennsylvania upon receipt of a request from Justice Meier Steinbrink of the New York State Supreme Court asking him to do so.

The Pennsylvania governor made the announcement when asked about a statement issued in New York by Justice Steinbrink, as chairman of the board of directors of the B'nai B'rith Anti-Defamation League.

Justice Steinbrink in asking an inquiry, cited what he said was "an open letter to the public" from the Franklin County, Pa., Klan, published in the Chambersburg, Pa., Public Opinion last Friday, and urged the Pennsylvania governor "to direct the investigative and prosecutory forces of the state" to proceed immediately against the Klan.

The Franklin County Klan, Steinbrink said, was inciting race hatred by falsely claiming in the advertisement that "if the negro gets his vote they will turn quickly on those who held them down."

"I have received no message from Justice Steinbrink," Governor Martin said in a statement. "Upon receipt of his message I will have an immediate investigation made by appropriate state agencies into Klan activities in Franklin county or any other place in Pennsylvania."

"I have, on many occasions, publicly expressed my vigorous opposition to any un-American organization," he said.

Mrs. Roosevelt Is Heard in Charge On Labor's Part

more employers are beginning to recognize that.

The former First Lady declared that labor's primary responsibility is a realization that every man and woman is responsible for the well-being of this community.

"Unity of labor such as is evidenced by this labor rally in Kingston is desperately needed the world over," she said. "Only through unity such as has been demonstrated here tonight will labor achieve its goals."

"We Cannot Shirk"

"We, as laborers, cannot shirk individual responsibility in a democracy. It is not always the fault of our representatives that legislation beneficial to labor is not considered."

"The unions," she continued, "have the means of getting information to the masses and it is their responsibility to see that adequate representation is made in legislation."

Speaking on an international level, Mrs. Roosevelt said that the role of citizen is enormously important in the present state of the world. It is labor and management's responsibility to establish an economy that will meet the needs of the whole country.

"We must be concerned with economy as a nation," she continued. "If this nation goes down, the rest of the world goes down with us. The rest of the world depends on us for political and economic leadership."

"The greatest single enemy of ours is lack of interest," she emphasized, "not wanting to assume a responsibility that we cannot escape. Consequences will come, but we can definitely shape the future."

The former First Lady said the second World War resulted because after the first one we hurried to forget what we had gone through. We tried to escape responsibility as much as we could and eventually we had to face another war because of situations that arose.

"If peace is worth having," Mrs. Roosevelt said, "it will exact the same sacrifice and work required to win the war."

She urged the trade unions to grow within their organizations. Democracy, she said, begins down at the bottom, the grass roots where the real work must be done. She told her listeners that they had fought to win the war, now they must fight to maintain the peace.

In conclusion, Mrs. Roosevelt said she would leave a wish with her Ulster county neighbors — that they would go out and strengthen their unions and strengthen themselves as individuals.

Father Monaghan Speaks

Asserting that labor must control the channels of production, the Rev. Father Monaghan of Staten Island delivered a brilliant address in which he declared that labor must go to school, to educate the workers to their own personal dignity.

"American labor cannot live on its past. It needs more education," Father Monaghan said.

"Long ago every workshop was a classroom," he said. The apprentice learned his trade and the tradition of the craft where he worked. The social life then was stabilized by the traditions of his guild.

"Essentially these traditions," he continued, "were religious, a just price, a just wage and the brotherhood of craftsmen. Because this no longer prevails, our present social order is insecure. Liberalism, not machinery, destroyed it."

Father Monaghan declared that whatever their faults, the labor unions of America have salvaged the craft traditions of more humane, more Christian days. The right to organize, the right to fair wages, the right to work humanely, all these rights so reluctantly conceded by political liberalism, were matter of fact in the medieval guilds of workers.

"Labor needs to go to school, for America must plan for industrial democracy," Father Monaghan said. "Its enemies have plans and its enemies are citizens."

"The workers of America must establish industrial democracy in their own choosing and under their own control. Self-perpetuating labor leaders are as menacing to democracy as the sabotage of communists. By their salaries ye shall know them."

The noted Catholic trade unionist declared that labor needs to know how to implement the principles of democracy with the problem of production, consumption and profits. Unionism, he said, must be more than wage insurance. It must be the social insurance of democracy.

Must Go to School

"Labor must go to school," Father Monaghan warned, "to find a philosophy of labor. Liberalism taught the labor unions to boast that they had no philosophy, no ethics, no traditions to live by, no human dignity, only the pride of wages."

"This is the servile state, no matter what other name it has. The noblest philosophy of labor is Christ. Christ is the worker's way, the worker's breath, the workers' life. The worker must learn to know that in this alone is his dignity and his worth, Christ is his saving sociology," Father Monaghan said.

"For over 50 years," he concluded, "the Popes have pleaded to the workers to associate in union for their betterment to go to school, to study the social and economic problems of their own industry and to be constructively engaged in the reorganization of the entire social order. It is still difficult to make the workers believe that they have the power and the most Christian tradition to reconstruct our disintegrated social order to a whole democracy."

Mrs. F. D. R. Addresses Rally

This is how Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt looked to the audience of approximately 2,000 at the labor rally in the municipal auditorium Wednesday night, as she waxed humorous during a part of her speech which she devoted to Ulster. Labor organizations have a great responsibility in the future of America, she said. Sam Doyle, president of the Ulster County Trades and Labor Council, who presided as chairman of the program, sits at right.

The New York State Federation of Labor, explained the program adopted by the recent New York State Federation convention in Rochester and emphasized the points labor is seeking for legislative enactment.

Chief among these, he said, was the enactment of a sound disability law to cure the ills not covered by the now archaic Workmen's Compensation Act. It should be a measure comparable to the Workmen's Compensation Law and the unemployment insurance laws.

Pointing out that New York state ranks 27th in state education, Mr. Hanover said the convention went on record demanding the building of several state universities in New York, institutions that would be free to persons of all race, color and creed.

Mr. Hanover said labor is desirous of a representative on the state Board of Regents to curb unsavory conditions in the educational setup. He urged extension of the Workmen's Compensation Law to adequately pay on the basis of wages received today.

"The housing situation," Mr. Hanover said, "The legislators saw fit to go home without passing a single adequate housing law."

"By November we will be paying inflationary prices for food, clothing and housing," Hanover declared. "Labor should not become involved in party politics but should deal directly with the individual candidates."

"Stabilization must be worked out," he continued, "so that the workers may enjoy the fruits of their own labors." He closed with a wish that this Labor Day be dedicated to "reward your friends and defeat your enemies."

'Unity Is Dream'

"Labor unity such as has been demonstrated here tonight by rival C.I.O. and A.F.L. factions is truly a dream," Ralph O. Samuels, a member of the Executive Board of the A.C.W.A.-C.I.O., declared.

This type meeting was not believed possible a while ago," he continued. "Labor tonight it is a reality, an expression of the desire to possess unity."

"There should be no real cause for conflict . . . it is necessary today . . . imperative tomorrow . . ." he said. The goal of economic security for the worker is much closer than it was 10 years ago . . . but more complete organization is needed . . .

"We must not lose sight of the fact," he warned, "that industry is moving away from organized centers into villages and rural areas . . . that shortage of skilled and semi-skilled labor is one of the big reasons why jobs are plentiful."

"Organization is needed right here in Kingston . . . now to prepare for emergencies of five years from now when jobs may not be so plentiful . . . In times of stress organization will be more plentiful . . . The time to act is now . . . Go out and preach the gospel of organized labor."

Sorenson Speaks

An added speaker was William Sorenson, well-known Poughkeepsie labor figure, who spoke on the development of the trade unions and the need for education in the labor movement. Labor needs people willing to sacrifice themselves to the cause of enlightenment of the masses, Mr. Sorenson said.

He lauded the joint sponsorship of the meeting and urged his listeners to spread the doctrine of labor unity. Referring to Mrs. Roosevelt, he said, "Mrs. Roosevelt will pay the First Lady of the Land."

Mayor William F. Edelmuth in welcoming the guests to Kingston, lauded the services of the Roosevelt family to the nation. He said he would cherish the remembrance of the last visit to Kingston of the late president.

Speaking of labor, Mayor Edelmuth said there was strength in the unity displayed by a rally of this kind. The workmen needs unity for the accomplishment of better homes and a better society, he declared.

Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom of Temple Emanuel delivered the invocation and introduced Mrs. Roosevelt said it was one of the supreme moments of his life . . . and a leader in opposition to Portugal and Transjordan.

Another hot fight in the council lay immediately behind the membership applications. It shaped up yesterday over the Soviet Ukraine's charges that Greece is a menace to world peace.

In the brief first round of debate, which was quickly sidetracked by the necessity of meeting a deadline on the membership applications, the Netherlands led off in questioning the validity of the Ukraine's allegations.

Sharp words passed between the British and the Dutch on one side and Russia, on the other, which insisted that the council must hear the Ukraine's case against Greece. The argument will be resumed as soon as the membership matters are cleared away.

Lipgar to Honor Vets at Dinner
On-the-Job Trainees Will Dine at Torino's
Abraham H. Lipgar, proprietor of Lipgar's Studio on Fair street, will be host this evening at a dinner to be given at Torino's Inn on the Ashokan Boulevard to the members of his staff and their wives. The dinner is given in honor of the three World War 2 veterans who are taking advantage of the "on-the-job" apprenticeship training program which Mr. Lipgar is offering.

The three men who will be honored this evening are Vincent McDonough, Albert Flick and Hansbrouck Dougherty who are taking the course in photographic training at the Lipgar studio. The three men have now completed their "basic" training in the art and will now enter upon the second stage of the training program. All three were accepted and are receiving the benefits under the G.I. Bill of Rights of training in the art of general photography. This type of training is offered under similar conditions to those offered under former G.I.'s in approved schools and colleges but the training is given "on the job."

Mr. Lipgar, with three trainees in his place of business is offering the advantages of the training program to one of the largest groups in photography in the entire Hudson valley.
